Daladier Moves To Break Strike

MASS TROOPS FOR CRISIS

PARIS, Nov. 29.—(UP)—Premier Edouard Daladier massed the armed forces of France today to break tomorrow's general strike against the government recovery program and to keep essential services running.

The first violence occurred in Valenciennes, in northern France, where several were injured in efforts by pickets to prevent striking metal workers from resuming work in the village of Raismes. Five were arrested.

It was estimated Daladier had reinforced the Paris garrisons with 40,000 troops and mobile guards. As minister of National defense as well as Premier, Daladier has personal command of the army, which is back of him.

Calls Showdown
Daladier has called for a showdown on the efforts of the left wing labor leaders to rescind his financial and economy decrees modifying the social reforms so recently gained. The decree would lengthen the hours of labor, increase taxes and generally call on the nation for heavy sacrifices in the interest of recovery.

Daladier kept labor guessing today by keeping most of his preparations secret. No official announcement was made to the number of troops and mobile guards.

JURY SELECTED TO HEAR HOWARD CASE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—(UP)—A jury composed of 12 middle-aged businessmen was selected shortly before noon today to try Floyd W. Howard, chief of police of Santa Ana, and seven others accused of conspiracy to import sweepstakes tickets into this country from Mexico in a lottery scheme.

The federal men said the scheme was nation-wide, charging that the defendants planned to sell in this country approximately 3,000,000 tickets on the 1938 sweepstakes at $1 each.

They said the scheme had been halted before many of the tickets were sold.

Frequent challenges by both defense and prosecution all but exhausted the jury panel, only two prospective jurors remaining when the last juror was accepted.

Rebels Again Bomb Barcelona

HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier, Nov. 29.—(UP)—While both land armies were reported inactive today along the Spanish war fronts, Nationalist air attacks continued along the east coast.

Five Savoias penetrated the anti-aircraft barrage at Barcelona and dropped 50 bombs on the port. The British freighters Stanwell and Stangrove were hit, the former for the sixth time in a raid.

22 Shopping Days Till Christmas

THE WORLD WAS LOOKING SPECULATIVELY AT GERMAN PEACE PROPOSALS

LOOKING BACK TO CHRISTMAS 22 YEARS AGO

The world was looking skeptically at German peace proposals. . . . Christmas packages for allied soldiers, and for the American ambulance units in France were solicited. . . . Street shrines were being erected in London to honor the war dead. . . . The Virgin Islands spent their first Christmas under the American flag. . . . Women were wearing high waists and flaring, fussy skirts.

Arrest Pair For Mutiny

LONG BEACH, Cal., Nov. 28.—Two men were arrested today on charges of mutiny as they returned from the ill-fated, gold hunting expedition of the late Jean Harlow's stepfather, Marino Bello.

They were Charles Segal, 40, and Abraham Kapellner, 44. They said Bello had them put ashore in San Jose, Guatemala, where they booked passage here aboard the Italian motorship Cellina. Federal Bureau of Investigation agents met them at the dock and charged them with "resisting officers in charge of an American vessel." Bail was set at $10,000 for each.

The arrests were based on radio

STARTS L. A. TO N. Y. FLIGHT IN SKOOTER

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—(UP)—John W. Jones, dancing aviator took off from Municipal Airport at 6:31 a. m. today in his $2000 air scooter, headed for New York on a non-stop, non-refueling flight.

Jones, formerly a vaudeville and film dancer, but not a commercial pilot, hopes to push his low-cost miniature ship across the continent in less than 28 hours. The plane is a stock model Aerona, one of the smallest planes built, designed on account of its low price to put wings on the man in the street.

New Fuel Tank
The craft normally seats a pilot and one passenger and carries only enough gasoline for 300 miles at its cruising speed of 90 miles per hour. For his cross-country dash Jones fitted the tiny plane with a 146-gallon fuel tank which, he said, would take sufficient gasoline for 36 hours' flying.

The dancing pilot will follow the American Airlines southern route and will receive his weather instructions from the line's operators on his one-way radio set. His course will take him over Tucson, Ariz., El Paso, Midland and Fort Worth, Texas; Texarkana and Little Rock, Ark.; Memphis and Nashville, Tenn.; Louisville, Ky.; and Cincinnati and Columbus, Ohio.

Grape Fight Is Taken To Court

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 29.—The legal controversy concerning grape production in Sonoma county and zone two was before the third district court on appeal today, pending submission of written briefs Dec. 15 by the state prorate commission.

The commission seeks a permanent writ of prohibition against the Sonoma county superior court, to prevent the issuance of an injunction which would restrain the commission from enforcing the prorate. After oral arguments were concluded yesterday, the court set the date for filing briefs. Attorneys for the protesting growers will be allowed 10 days after the commission has filed to set their contentions before the court.

Crash Injuries Result In Death

KINGMAN, Ariz., Nov. 29.—(UP)—Kenneth W. Davidson, 47-year-old attorney and Arizona business man, formerly of Albany, N. Y., died in a hospital here last night from injuries received in an automobile accident on the Boulder Dam highway.

Davidson was returning home from Las Vegas, Nev., where he had taken relatives to board a train for the east. He was alone and passing motorists discovered his overturned car 300 yards off the highway. Cause of the accident was not known.

He was born in Princeton, Wis., and was admitted to the bar at Albany. He was also the Kingman district correspondent for the United Press.

OPENS CONVENTION

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 29.—(UP)—Earl Warren, district attorney of Alameda county, who will succeed U. S. Webb as attorney general next January, was scheduled to speak today at the opening session of the California highway patrol's annual convention. The officers will hear Gov. Elbert L. Olson, Motor Vehicle Director Ray Ingels and John F. Pullen, presiding justice of the third district court of appeal, during the three day meeting.

The freakish snowstorm which wracked most of the country chose the Empire State building in New York—the tallest in the world—as an appropriate backdrop for this enormous drift.

COMMITTEE VACANCIES ARE FILLED AS G O P LEADERS MEET

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(UP)—Former Senator Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware and Harvey Jewett, Jr., of South Dakota today were elected to fill two vacancies on the executive committee of the Republican national committee.

Hastings and Jewett were elected by the party's regulation annual strategy conference. Some 90 of the 103 committee members were present or represented by proxy at the Carlton hotel, for the party's regulation annual strategy conference.

The G.O.P. has something to celebrate for the first time since its 1928 Presidential election triumph. "On To 1940" Committee Chairman John D. M. Hamilton announced that the conference slogan was: "On To 1940."

Hamilton, himself, seemed a bit more firmly settled in his chair. (Continued On Page 4, Column 8)

Uncle of Crash Victim Is Jailed

FRESNO, Cal., Nov. 29.—(UP)—A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury today following an inquest into an automobile accident in which a nine-year-old Patsy Murphy of Bakersfield suffered fatal injuries. The girl was riding in a car driven by her uncle, John Meyers, 20, of Bakersfield, when it crashed into a truck seven miles north of here on Thanksgiving Day. Meyers was charged with negligent homicide.

Funeral services for the girl were to be held in Tulare today. The accident occurred when Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Murphy, parents of the victim, were moving from Bakersfield to Merced.

S. F. Club Wins Sales Tax Fight

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 29.—(UP)—Officials of the state board of equalization indicated today an appeal would be filed against a Sacramento superior court decision which exempted the Union League Club of San Francisco from paying the retail sales tax on meals and drinks served to members.

The far-reaching effect of the decision would prevent the equalization board from collecting sales tax from several hundred Elks clubs, private clubs and groups similar to the Union League club, where meals are served to members as in their own homes. Refunds of taxes already paid would be ordered if today's decision is upheld.

The San Francisco club filed three suits against State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson, seeking refund of past taxes. It was contended the club was not making money on meals but was serving club members, and therefore should not come under the sales tax as a retailer.

Deadline For Taxes Near

With the deadline for paying first-installment taxes due next Monday at 5 p. m., County Tax Collector J. C. Lamb today reported that 18 per cent of the $5,684,347.95 total tax charge had been collected, up to this morning, the amount being $1,024,236.42.

This approximately keeps pace with collections last year, Lamb said. Any taxpayer who has questions to ask about his tax bill was urged by Lamb to come in before the rush next Monday. Taxes for the first half of 1938-39 not paid by next Monday, will be subject to a delinquent penalty of 8 per cent, Lamb warned. Second-installment taxes are due January 1, and become delinquent April 20.

NOTED ROUMANIAN SHOT BY ASSASSINS

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Nov. 29.—(UP)—Troops were thrown around the city of Cluj today because of an attempt to assassinate Dr. Francis Stefanescu-Goanga, a liberal and a former minister of public instruction.

Simultaneously the government began rounding up former members of the outlawed "Iron Guard," a Fascist, anti-Semitic organization, as the result of anti-Jewish outbreaks at Timisoara, Cernautzi and Cluj.

Wounds Serious
Dr. Stefanescu Goanga was shot down in the street. Two bullets struck near the heart and physicians said his recovery was doubtful. A detective accompanying him was killed by the assassins believed to be students.

The government took severe measures and ordered a curfew. A state of siege has prevailed in Cluj and other Roumanian cities for a number of years, but recently its restrictions have been relaxed.

Students Jailed
Soldiers patrolled the streets and all suspicious persons were halted and ordered to show identification papers. Many were searched for arms. Numerous students were arrested.

Increasing unrest marked the return of King Carol from a two week tour of European capitals. It was expected here that as a result of his visit to London Great Britain will increase considerably her import of Roumanian paper, grain and oil and possibly invest in Roumania's industries, chiefly mines.

SEC Chief Warns Utility Concerns

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(UP)—Securities and exchange Commission officials indicated today they would refrain from "cracking down" on public utility holding companies that fail to file tentative integration plans by the Dec. 1 deadline.

The emphasized, however, that firms not filing plans would be expected to indicate intention of complying within a "reasonable time."

Sets Deadline
The deadline was set by SEC Chairman Douglas in a letter to the heads of 66 utility holding companies last Aug. 3. He said that he expected them to submit suggestions, plans and programs under the so-called "death sentence" clause of the public utility holding company act by Dec. 1 even though they may be tentative.

Traffic Death Toll Sets Record

VISALIA, Cal., Nov. 29.—(UP)—Mrs. Katherine Bradford, 60, of Bakersfield, died last night in a Porterville hospital from injuries suffered in an automobile accident Nov. 23.

Her death brings the traffic accident death toll in Tulare county this year to 61, a mark equalling an all-time high set in 1936.

Another traffic victim, Pedro Sanchez, Tulare pedestrian, died last night in a Tulare hospital from injuries suffered when he was struck by an alleged hit-run driver. An accident near Visalia early Sunday brought death to a Visalia woman and her 18-months old granddaughter.

Mrs. Bradford was injured when the car driven by her husband, David Bradford, 63, skidded and overturned six miles south of Duocor.

BELGIUM PROPOSES PEACE PROGRAM

BRUSSELS, Nov. 29.—(UP)—Premier Paul Henri Spaak announced in the senate today that Belgium plans to press a program calling for mediation of the Spanish civil war by Belgium, Great Britain and France.

The announcement by Spaak created belief that a cabinet crisis might develop this week end because the Socialists, Liberals and Catholics are expected to oppose certain points in the program.

The program announced by the premier called for:

- 1.—Withdrawal of Belgium from the international nonintervention committee, which has sought to isolate the Spanish conflict. Liberals and Catholics are expected to oppose this proposal.
- 2.—Dispatch of a representative to the insurgent regime of Generalissimo Francisco Franco. Socialists indicated they would fight this point.
- 3.—Advocate creation of an international commission to supply foodstuffs to Spain.
- 4.—Mediation of the civil war by Belgium, France and Britain.

Plan To Rebuild Tijuana Area

TIJUANA, Baja Cal., Mexico.—(UP)—Gov. Toboada of Baja California conferred with Tijuana business men today on plans to rebuild the area destroyed in the $500,000 fire that gutted the entertainment and bazaar district here last Friday.

Governor Toboada is expected to comment on the proposal offered by Tijuana business men that the government waive all licenses and taxes for one year if reconstruction of the burned area is begun at once.

The federal district attorney's office continued to investigate the possible causes of the conflagration. Subpenas were issued commanding the 32 owners of the various buildings to appear for routine questioning.

Fear 22 Dead In Mine Disaster

WALDENBURG, Germany, Nov. 29.—(UP)—Twenty-two miners were trapped and believed killed today by a fire which swept the Fuchsgrube. Rescue workers brought out nine bodies by 10 a. m. The fire was caused by a short circuit.

VETERAN PILOT, ONE PASSENGER RESCUED

POINT REYES, Cal., Nov. 29.—(UP)—A luxurious United Airlines Skylounge plane, enroute from Seattle to San Francisco with seven persons aboard, crashed in a turbulent ocean off Point Reyes, 30 miles north of the Golden Gate, today when its fuel gave out while battling a terrific rain and wind storm.

Two of those aboard—the pilot and a paroled convict passenger enroute to South America to start life anew—escaped with their lives. The others were missing and feared drowned. Coast guardsmen reported they sighted two bodies.

Hung To Plane
The pilot, Captain Charles Stead of Seattle, and the paroled convict, Isadore Edelstein, Los Angeles, told a gripping story of how they and their companions sat huddled on top of their fast-breaking craft as the waves pounded it to pieces, and how the five others leaped one by one into the water in desperate attempts to reach shore in safety.

Coast Guardsmen pulled Stead and Edelstein by ropes up a 500 foot almost perpendicular cliff that towered above the plane's wreckage. Stead apparently escaped injury. He fainted upon reaching the top but quickly revived. Edelstein was badly hurt. He was carried in a stretcher to the nearby Point Reyes coast guard station where physicians gave him first aid.

Seven on Board
The plane, a huge 14-passenger Skylounge, one of the most luxurious craft operated by United Airlines, left Seattle at 3:30 last night with three crew, including a stewardess, and four passengers. It cleared Portland and Medford, Ore., for Oakland airport where it was due at 2:10 a. m. It never arrived. The crash occurred between 5 and 5:45 a. m.

Paroled Convict
Edelstein was sent to Washington state penitentiary, Walla Walla, as a habitual criminal. Governor Clarence Martin paroled him last Wednesday on condition he leave the United States.

Swim For Shore
"We drifted until we hit the rocks. Then we began to go to pieces. We got the passengers out on top. Then all of us got out with blankets and rode comfortably until we reached the rocks. We started coming apart and the breakers began pouring over us."

Wounded
"Three of them shoved off. I'm not sure which three. We were not very far from shore. I was certain they would make it. They were swimming strong when I last saw them. The stewardess (Frona Clay of The Dalles, Ore.) got off and climbed on a rock but a wing broke off and swept toward her. I guess she was afraid the wing would hit her. She jumped off the rock and started swimming. One of the fellows was with her. They were doing all right when I last saw them. Mr. Edelstein and I stayed on top of the ship as long as we could—until it broke up under us. Then we swam in and made it. I drank enough salt water to float a battleship."

Victim Of Kidnapers Found Near Salt Lake

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 29.—(UP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation today assumed investigation of the story of Ray Emeneger, Petaluma, Calif., automobile dealer, that he had been kidnaped in San Francisco by two hitch hikers and forced to drive to near Salt Lake City, where he was bound, gagged, beaten and thrown out of his automobile.

Emeneger, suffering from a severe head wound, was placed in the police emergency hospital. A FBI agent was on guard outside the injured man's room and would not permit Emeneger to be questioned by newspapermen.

The Petaluma businessman told authorities that he halted at a stop sign on a San Francisco street about noon yesterday while on his way to meet his wife. While stopped, Emeneger, said a man jumped in the car, forced him to drive a short distance and then pick up another stranger.

Bound With Wire
Officers said that Emeneger was then forced to drive east, stopping only in Reno and Elko, Nev., for food. On the outskirts of Salt Lake City, the men apparently made Emeneger stop his machine, then bound him with wire and put a bandage gag in his mouth, then threw him out of the automobile, which was found near the injured man.

JAPANESE REFUSE TO RE-OPEN YANGTSE TO FOREIGN TRADE

SHANGHAI, Nov. 29.—(UP)—Japan formally refused today to reopen the Yangtze river to commercial navigation, as demanded by the United States, Britain, France and Italy.

Admiral Koshiro Oikawa, Japanese naval commander in chief in China, delivered a memorandum to that effect to the naval commanders of the four powers.

A communique summarizing the memorandum concluded by saying: "We shall be compelled to stick by our decision as long as the Chinese forces maintain their present attitude."

Deny U. S. Charges
Denying allegations by the United States and Britain that Japan is violating the open door pledge of the nine power treaty and monopolizing trade, the communique said: "Japanese vessels now navigating the Yangtze are transporting munitions and articles necessary to maintenance of the Japanese forces and organization attached thereto. None is engaged in general trade."

Educators Discuss New Method Of Board Election

BOOSTERS JOIN INFORMAL TALK

At a private conference last night with chamber of commerce representatives, who sought the board's views on proposed changes in school representation, members of the board of education were said to have suggested official expression of sentiment by the chamber, before the school officials go on record.

The chamber representatives, James B. Tucker and E. B. Sharp, were reported to have informed the board of education members as to their attitude toward election of school district board members on the regional plan, and how they would view proposed legislation to adopt the regional plan of representation, rather than electing board members at large, the present method.

Would Settle Control
The regional plan of representation, it is known, has been suggested by coast high school districts in considering proposals for a union junior college district. The present plan of electing board members at large would give Santa Ana control of a union district, the other districts are said to fear.

Since the Santa Ana chamber directors have taken no action on the matter, members of the board of education took the stand that they should not express themselves until the chamber directors have taken a stand, it was reported.

For the fourth time since 1923 the Army Air Corps won the Collier Trophy for making the greatest achievement in aviation.

Chief Howard Ponders 'Push-Gas Service Plan'

If Police Chief Floyd Howard of Santa Ana can get Police Chief George Franzen of Orange to talk, he may inaugurate a gasoline delivery service here, according to indications today.

At any rate, Franzen received a Riverside newspaper clipping from Howard today with an accompanying letter which asked for an application. The clipping told an unusual story.

It seems an Orange WPA worker ran out of gasoline in Riverside recently one block from a service station. Walking to the service station, he telephoned Riverside police, told the desk sergeant to rush a police car to the scene at once.

"I want to use your car and push my car to the service station so I can get some gas," the WPA worker told the surprised officers. "It's only a block." Asked why he had called the Riverside officers when his car was stalled but a block from a service station, the Orange man said: "Well, you see, the Orange police always push stalled cars when they run out of gas and I thought you wouldn't mind."

"I might inaugurate such a service if I can get Franzen to explain," Howard said.

RESULTS OF CAFETERIA CHECK REPORTED TO S. A. EDUCATORS

Of 46 other school districts in California where cafeterias are operated in the schools, 30 follow the Santa Ana plan of operation by the school district, according to a survey reported to the Santa Ana board of education by School Auditor Harold Yost last evening.

Yost sent questionnaires to 82 school districts, and received 50 replies, four of which reported no cafeterias in operation.

Form of Supervision
Besides the 30 districts which operate their cafeterias themselves, 14 others exercise some form of direct or indirect supervision over the cafeterias. In eight districts the student bodies operate the cafeterias, but in only one, Fresno, is this done without district board supervision.

In Pomona the P-T-A operates the six cafeterias under supervision of the principals.

In San Francisco each school operates its own cafeteria, with accounting done by the school board.

Has Association
Santa Barbara has a cafeteria association, made up of principals, which operates the nine cafeterias there. Burbank's four cafeterias are directed by a cafeteria committee responsible to the board. Beverly Hills has a cafeteria association, consisting of the district superintendent, one board member and a representative of each of the five P-T-A's.

Chico's high school and junior high school cafeterias are conducted by the school principals, through the cooking departments. The elementary cafeteria is managed by principals, with WPA cooks. The district exercises indirect supervision.

Other Systems
Ukiah's cafeterias are operated by private parties, with some district supervision. El Monte leases its cafeterias to private parties for 5 per cent of gross sales, the district furnishing equipment and paying utilities.

Fresno, Compton, Exeter, San Luis, Fullerton, North Sacramento, Ontario and Santa Rosa are the eight districts with student body operation of cafeterias.

Oakland, San Diego, Long Beach, Alhambra, Alameda, Richmond, Reedley, Brawley, Bakersfield, Taft, Montebello, South Pasadena, Whittier, Madera, Monterey, Napa, Huntington Beach, Sacramento, Lodi, San Luis Obispo, Palo Alto, Watsonville, Yreka, Modesto, Red Bluff, Porterville, Visalia, Ventura and Marysville are districts which, like Santa Ana, conduct their cafeterias themselves.

Yost's survey also compared methods of purchasing supplies, and salaries paid. It shows Santa Ana's wage scale is almost the lowest in the state.

Specialists from the college of agriculture and the U. S. weather bureau will assist Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg next Thursday at 7:30 p. m., in an orchard heating demonstration to show approved methods of regulating heaters to secure the maximum protection with the least smoke.

The demonstration will feature the firing of used heaters taken at random in the field so that growers may see the practical application of the recommendations that have developed during the past season or two in connection with economical operation of orchard heaters.

Point To Survey

Only one demonstration is scheduled for Orange county, according to Wahlberg. It will be held at the Mabury orchards, east of Santa Ana, on the corner of Tustin avenue and E. Fourth street. W. R. Schoonover of University of California, and Harold Rathbone, U. S. Weather bureau are the visiting specialists.

A recent survey made by the Weather Bureau indicates 6,985 acres out of the 74,000 acres of citrus in Orange County are equipped with heaters. Of these, 4,876 acres are heated with oil and 1,239 acres with briquets. This acreage represents 8.4 percent of the citrus acreage in the county.

HISTORICAL ASPECT ASSUMED BY CHRISTMAS SEAL CAMPAIGN

An historical aspect is given this year's Christmas Seal campaign by the insertion of portraits of four leaders in the fight against tuberculosis on each sheet of 100 seals.

Each corner seal on the sheet contains a picture of a man who has made an outstanding contribution to the tuberculosis movement, according to Dr. Margaret D. Baker, Santa Ana, vice chairman of the Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association.

Name Four Heroes

The four heroes pictured on each 1938 sheet of Christmas Seals are as follows:

Dr. Rene Theophile Laennec, French physician, who in 1819 invented the stethoscope, an instrument which has been a great help to physicians in diagnosing tuberculosis. It has enabled them to hear the sounds in the chest and in this way to detect abnormal conditions.

Dr. Robert Koch, German physician, who in 1882 discovered the germ that caused tuberculosis, and, through this identification of the enemy, brought the first hope that it might be conquered.

Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau, American physician, who in 1885 established modern sanatorium treatment of tuberculosis in the United States, at Saranac Lake.

Einar Holboell, postal clerk in Denmark, who in 1904 introduced the idea of selling a special Christmas stamp to build a hospital for tuberculosis children. The idea, adopted in this country in 1907, has made possible an organized fight against tuberculosis which has reached into every corner of the United States and has saved mil-

Man Jailed After "Free for All"

As the result of an asserted free-for-all fight in which two Santa Ana men were stabbed by a large pocket knife, Atencio, 39, 1006 Logan street, was booked at county jail today on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

The fight, broken up by Officers Ralph Pantuso and Paul Cozad who happened to pass the Perez cafe, 1026 Logan street, where the fight assertedly occurred, resulted in a neck wound to C. Perez and wounds in arm, leg and stomach for Atencio.

Ovidio was arrested on a charge of being drunk and fighting.

4-H Clubs In Successful Year

CRANE DEPICTS GREAT STRIDES

Work of 4-H clubs in Orange county has been extremely successful in 1938 and has had the largest enrollment in several years, Ross E. Crane, assistant farm advisor, declared today. A total of 288 boys and girls have been enrolled in the work and 223 have submitted written records of their projects.

Five new clubs were organized during the year. These were the Orana Rancheros, El Modena, Anaheim, Midway City and Balboa Island.

Great Activity

Club records show that members of both the agriculture and home economics clubs have been active during the year. Agriculture club members owned and cared for 4566 poultry, 10 pigs, 15 ducks, 25 stands of bees, 20 dairy calves, 2 cows, 5 beef steers, 14 sheep, 3 goats, 97 pigs and 126 rabbits.

Vegetable crops were grown on a total of 25 acres of land. Poultry and rabbit projects continue to be most popular. The girls in 4-H clothing clubs made a large number of articles of clothing.

Keep Careful Records

Club members are required to keep a careful record of all costs and returns incurred in raising their animals or crops. These costs include rent of land, labor, feed, seed and any other costs. When the project is completed, the total costs are compared with the total income. Two-thirds of the members made a fair to good profit, while one-third had losses, usually small. The total value of all crops and animals raised was $11,748; the total cost was $13,86, which gave the group as a whole a profit of $2,612. "This is considered very satisfactory as it includes the projects that lost money," Crane explained.

Club members were awarded cash prizes of $220 at the Los Angeles County Fair and $90 at the Great Western Livestock Show, besides a large number of first and second place ribbons for their entries.

Stage Local Fairs

Two clubs held local fairs during the year. They were the Katella Farmers and the Brea Go-Getters. Both exhibits attracted much attention.

The 26 clubs active during the year were in charge of volunteer local leaders, who made up the County Club council. All credit is due to these leaders for the successful year's work, Crane said.

This group was presided over by Mrs. F. L. Benson of Anaheim. The new president is Ira Hartshorn of Costa Mesa.

Club work has been established in Orange county for 19 years, during which time an estimated 4700 boys and girls have been enrolled. A continuation of active interest in and support of club work is anticipated in 1939.

"Danger is My Business," "35000 Days in Texas," "California Missions," "Conspicuous California Plants," "Forest Trees of the Pacific Coast," "Green Worlds," and "The Summing Up" are also recent additions, Miss Dickson stated.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood.

Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisons waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Board Okehs Aid For Handicapped S. A. Children

Opening of classes for handicapped children next January was a program approved by the board of education last evening, as recommended by Superintendent Frank Henderson. The classes will be conducted from 8:45 to 11:45 a. m. in quarters arranged at John Muir school, on East Fourth street.

Superintendent Henderson reported that one teacher and suitable equipment for the special nature of instruction planned can be arranged, with very little interference with the regular school program at Muir school. Parents of the children will provide transportation to and from school.

The board approved assignment of Mrs. Annie Bethencourt to Mexican Americanization instruction, to relieve Mrs. Hazel Bishop, who will devote herself exclusively to elementary relief work.

Designs Selected For J. C. Art

Selection of the two best designs for a new Junior College decalcomania transfer was announced today as drawing by William Talevich and Lester Bowman were declared by judges Carol Richardson, Josephine Butler, and Miss Frances Egge, to be the best of several submitted. Decalcomania transfers, Richardson explained, are the red and black window stickers placed on college automobiles.

Both of the designs will be redone by the artists and placed on exhibition in the College hall showcase and students will then vote for their choice on a ballot to appear in a future issue of El Don, Jaycee weekly newspaper.

The artist whose design is chosen, Richardson stated, will be awarded a $3 dollar prize, and then the transfers will be made for students use by a local printing concern.

QUIZ HITS ROCKS AS DEPUTIES ACT

Investigation of a reported gasoline theft fizzled last night for Deputy Sheriffs Ed Hoffman and George Swain, their statement revealed today.

Called to Lincoln boulevard a mile west of Brookhurst avenue, the officers found that a car operated by Thomas Wyatt, Anaheim, merely had broken down. Wyatt had hitch-hiked to Anaheim, borrowed his brother-in-law's car, returned to the scene.

Arriving there with two friends who accompanied him from Anaheim, Wyatt discovered his brother-in-law's car was almost disabled because of a gasoline shortage. His act of transferring gasoline from his own car to that of his brother-in-law caused an Orange county citizen to summon the deputies.

-with an automatic gas water heater

There's no limit at all to the service of an automatic gas water heater when you obtain one of suitable size. For the smallest use or the biggest — from morning till evening and the whole night through — the faucet will never run cold.

That is a convenience worth having. In fact, it's a necessity. And thanks to the rock-bottom economy of natural gas, the daily cost is so low that it is most easily measured in pennies.

Why not investigate all the advantages of an automatic gas water heater — one of ample capacity and with a tank of rustproof, longer-wearing metal? Ask about the generous trade-in offer and liberal terms, at a merchant plumber's, dealer's or your gas company.

SHOP EARLY—AND AT HOME

With the first of December upon us the urge to start Christmas gift buying asserts itself.

Every year we are asked to do our Christmas shopping early. And there's no doubt that it has its advantages.

But what's more important, let's do our Christmas shopping in Santa Ana this year.

Our merchants are co-operating in a delightful conspiracy we applaud and enjoy. Christmas savings are ready to be put into circulation. For the next two or three weeks, we will all have the same thought—Christmas shopping.

And when we do our Christmas buying we want the best price and we want the best quality; we want all our dollars can buy.

We don't urge you to trade at home or support Santa Ana stores just as a civic duty. We are confident that, if you compare the goods our merchants display—on the cold basis of dollars and cents value—with the goods of bigger stores in larger cities, you will find that local enterprise and business efficiency more than meet the big city competition.

When you figure into your costs the expenses of traveling to other cities, necessary meals and the wear and tear on your disposition we believe you will find that, in the long run, Christmas buying at home will be cheaper.

Local stores have lower overhead, allowing a lower percentage of profit. And you have the added satisfaction of knowing that money spent at home means a greater measure of prosperity at home. Money spent in Santa Ana goes to build purchasing power here; to help our tradesmen and clerks, our growers and merchants.

Look into the local shop windows, read the advertisements in The Register. You will find that the local merchants can serve you well. They have price and they have quality—and gay-colored ribbons and the Christmas spirit to wrap the packages in. They're home folks, too.

Look at the stocks on the shelves of the local stores. The buyers for Santa Ana merchants, anticipating a good Christmas trade have invested large sums of money in best goods attainable. Let's help them realize on their investment and let's show them that their faith in us is not misplaced.

In other words—Let's shop at home this Christmas.

IMPORTANCE

Everybody knows who Clark Gable is—an able actor who gives pleasure through his ability to entertain.

Everyone knows who Yehudi Menuhin is—a highly talented violinist who creates beauty for all who love music.

Not many know who Niels Bohr is. Yet Niels Bohr is also famous. He is famous among only a few persons, however. A physicist, he deals with the mysteries of living matter and dead matter. Scientific journals are now discussing his latest accomplishment. He has produced the first artificial radio-active substance which can be used in the treatment of cancer. Mr. Bohr, who is a Dane, won the Nobel prize in physics in 1932, by the way.

Editorials have been written, and more will be written, accusing the world of triviality because those who give us relaxation through romance and joy through the arts are accorded far wider recognition than those who spend their lives solving enigmas of nature for the betterment of all on earth. But every human being whose life work makes the sum of existence richer in sheer enjoyment, as well as every human being whose quiet, unspectacular toil beats back misery and postpones the knock of death, contributes to the fullness of life.

All who honestly strive are important, and their work is important—and each receives his reward, as he contributes, in his own way.

WARS AND TREATIES

The United States-Canadian treaty has been received in many ways by the citizenry of this country. Many people believe with Secretary Hull that the trade agreement presages a new era of international amity and understanding and a great boon in trade.

Contrasted with this approval is the sentiment of such opponents as Governor Aiken of Vermont, who said the treaty appears to be a plan "to turn New England solely into a recreational area."

Trade experts disagree as to what the result may be. The nations involved will have to wait and see. The palm for adverse comment must go to some unnamed historian who has observed:

"Leave it to the United States to do things in a big way. Chamberlain lost the World War at Munich, but Hull has gone further back with his trade treaties and lost the Revolution."

The Nation's Press

POOR PROSPECTS OF ARMAMENT LIMITATION (Barron's Weekly)

Much has been written in the past two weeks concerning the effect of the pogrom of the Jews in Germany on general European "appeasement." Since the Munich affair, this word "appeasement" has become a catch-all that vaguely means everything and definitely means nothing.

If "appeasement" means anything, it must include, above all other things, an agreement on armaments and a settlement of the German colonial demands. As a matter of fact, both of these problems were so far removed from settlement that the new Jewish persecutions could hardly make a solution for either of them more remote.

Although attention is now being focussed on the tremendous armament efforts of Great Britain and France, the determination of armament policy does not depend on the relations of these countries with Germany so much as on Germany's relations with Russia. It seems idle to consider limitation of armament in Europe until Germany and Russia come to a showdown. When that will be is anyone's guess.

The uncompromising hatred of Nazism for Communism does not appear to admit of any peaceful solution. Two nations that distrust one another so

FRANCE'S TROUBLES

The people of the United States should have a great interest in what is taking place in France. It must be remembered that they have adopted a 40-hour a week, limiting the number of hours that people dare work, somewhat similar to our Wage and Hour Bill.

The Daladier administration recognizes the effects of these shorter hours. There has been an effort made to lengthen out the hours so that there can be more produced and exchanged but the believers in collective bargaining are refusing to have the hours extended. The result is a national strike over the country. It will be remembered that Germany, Italy and Spain all went the same way on the belief that wages and prices could be set by collective bargaining.

The writer was in Spain in the winter of 1933, when the beginning stages of collective bargaining were being put into effect. A group of automobiles had been hired from Gibraltar but the Cadiz drivers and owners decided they would not permit the tourists or the boat companies to hire automobiles from another town. A rope was stretched around the automobiles and there was not enough police protection in Cadiz to enable the Gibraltar machines to get started. The result was Cadiz automobile workers had to be paid as well as the Gibraltar workers. This belief in collective bargaining killed free enterprise in Italy, Germany and Spain and, now is killing it in France and the United States. It always leads to the same thing—restricted production, limited output, arbitrary prices—until the people get so poor that those with foresight are willing to consent to a dictator in the hope that production can be increased and the interference from exchanges reduced or eliminated.

People in the United States should observe what is happening in France. What has taken place in these other countries. We can make up our minds whether we want to travel the same road, or again approach free enterprise that more nearly existed in the United States between 1868 and 1913 than any other country in all the world. During that time, the general well being of the people in the United States increased faster than at any other time in all history. Since that time, it has been receding. Will we learn from history and observation, or do we have to go through the Gethsemane ourselves?

ENVIRONMENT AND BELIEFS IN WAGES

One of the primary causes of the differences in beliefs of how wages can be established is environment. Those men who work for wages and have never owned many tools, frequently believe that the wages they receive depend upon how big a heart the employer has. They invariably think that wages are like gifts and can be established by will or volition of the employer.

On the other hand, the employer who has had considerable experience in different kinds of tools realizes that the employer does not establish the wages; that wages are a result of what the individual can produce and that he cannot produce much without efficient tools. The far-sighted employer knows that the wages he can pay per unit depends upon the efficiency of the poorest tools he has to use. He is, thus, constantly, striving to secure better tools so that there can be more production. And he knows that other employers are doing the same thing; that if he does not pay the employee as much as some other employer can pay him, because of efficient tools, he loses his employee.

As a concrete example of efficient tools, I will remember the experience of a linotype operator. A new font of type, or mats, was put on the linotype and the type was smaller than the old type so that it took more letters to fill a line. Immediately after the new type was put on the machine, the operator produced 400 lines a day more type. When the writer asked the operator how more lines of smaller type could be set than had been set, the operator explained that on the former type there were imperfections that delayed operation; that the extra lines did not cause as much exertion on the part of the operator as the old font of type did.

Truly, wages depend on production, as wages cannot be higher than production.

thoroughly are not likely to agree on a limitation of armament, and, obviously, Germany is not going to enter into any agreement with the western nations that will enable Russia to create a superior force on the eastern frontiers.

It is generally agreed that Germany probably hopes eventually to pull the Ukraine away from Russia. Hitler did not relinquish this ambition when he promised that Germany would make no more territorial demands in Europe. It probably has never been his intention of making the Ukraine a part of the German Reich. That would be contrary to his basic doctrine of racial purity. It can be safely assumed that if the Ukraine comes under German influence, it will do so in the form of a semi-independent satellite state, similar to Czechoslovakia and Hungary, which would supply Germany with raw materials in return for manufactured goods. Thus is the substance of conquest obtained without "territorial demands."

The showdown with Russia appears to wait on one or both of two possible developments: (1) Internal dissension in Russia and (2) readiness of Japan to take part in an attack on Soviet territory. Right now Japan has all she can handle in China. Unless Russia proves to be woefully weak, and unless resistance in China collapses entirely, it is unlikely that Japan will have the stomach for new adventures even by next summer.

Hidden Armaments

There is another reason for believing that the end of the armament race is nowhere in sight, namely, the inability to keep a close check on a nation's air-craft. And, as last summer's events proved, aircraft is now the most feared weapon of military aggression; no arms agreement could be considered without a limitation of airplanes.

But how can you be sure that the other fellow is going to live up to his part of the agreement? Germany built up a tremendous air fleet under the noses of the British and British military leaders. Unless all of these men were doddering incompetents, they must have recognized the tactical advantage of overwhelming superiority in the air. It seems to follow that neither Britain nor France was aware of how strong the German air force was until it was too late to do anything about it.

It cannot be pleaded that the French military leaders knew of Germany's air strength, but were hamstrung by labor troubles. Germany did not magically create its air fleet after the Blum Government came into office in France. It takes years to design, test and produce airplanes in quantity. Furthermore, England's situation in the air was just as weak as that of France, and there was no radical government to hamper England in keeping up with Germany's air development.

If Germany was able to build secretly an air force that turned out to be the dominating influence at a critical stage in European history, how can European nations place limitations on the number of bombers each nation is to own and know that the quotas will not be exceeded?

JOHNSON SAYS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Before we plunge into any supposed War Department defense program of 3,000 to 12,000 planes and the other recent spectacular and alarmist production plans, there should be a thorough investigation by a Senate or House committee into just what it is all about.

Our people seem to be well agreed that they want to build up their defense. They begin to sense that our defense includes two oceans and the whole Western Hemisphere. I think the man in the street understands the strategic importance of the Panama Canal and the reason why we cannot permit any possibly hostile air-bases near enough to it to threaten its destruction.

But I doubt if many of them understand why we should rush to build the Army air fleet to 9,000 and the Navy aircraft to 3,000. I'm sure I don't, and I only spent 20 years trying to learn the military profession. It is not for me to say—I am not saying that this is not the proposal of the General Staff of the Army and the General Board of the Navy. The services are intensely loyal to the Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy. They are a close-knit lot. I am speaking from no information except such as I can conjecture. But I conjecture that the President and some of his amateur and purely political strategists have a lot more to do with the launching this new made-work, spend and tax substitute for the discarded WPA or a wave of popular jitters, than any professional military and naval staff.

We need greatly increased defensive preparations on both sea and land. But we need them cut to our own measure and not to any European or Asiatic pattern.

We need a tremendous preparation for industrial mobilization for war. But we need to have that work out by industrial experts in teamwork with military and naval experts and not exclusively by any politicians in the War Department, any get-rich-quick graduates of an Army Industrial College and no—even by such an informed amateur of military, naval and industrial strategy as the President of the United States.

This is no light matter. It is of primary national importance. It is vital and could be tragic. Most of our military reverses have been directly due to the meddling of political amateurs in the field of professional military problems. It was thought that Woodrow Wilson, who was a profound student of our history, had eliminated that evil forever. It now seems clear that "evil" is too long a time about which to be dogmatic.

I am not sure that what is going on here will prove a scandalous stretch to Heaven but I know that it doesn't smell like any geranium around the edges. It needs to have the lid lifted before it has any chance to putrify.

If we get thoroughly embarked on any billion dollar defense program not supported in detail by the best military opinion we have, we might have shot our bolt and gone far before the error is discovered. This is not the kind of thing that lends itself to newspaper investigation and comment. Service men can't talk.

The only way to get at this before it is too late is through some kind of Congressional investigation. If the objection should be, "Official Secrets" the fitting answer is "Horsefeathers." Some military and naval matters can be kept secret, but not the principal elements in a billion dollar military and naval construction program. The country needs to know about this and it needs to know it now.

NOTHING IMMORAL ABOUT PRO-RATE

Criticism of the pro-rate program followed by California citrus growers seems to be based on a misunderstanding of the purpose of that program.

The pro-rate is not a price fixing program. It is a program to control supply to the point where markets will not be glutted.

It is based on the desire of the grower to obtain a reasonable profit for his crop by supplying markets with such amounts as those markets are able to absorb. Many considerations of a competitive nature make it impossible for the grower to fix the price. The price is fixed largely by the desire of the consumer for citrus products. Delicious fruits are strong competition for California oranges in summer and there is equally strong competition in winter. These factors make price fixing that would amount to exploitation of the consumer out of the question.

It is clear that the consumer is not entitled to buy oranges sold at a loss to the grower. It is clear that the grower is entitled to such a profit as will enable him to remain in business.

Unless there is something economically immoral in cooperative marketing, in the formation of organizations such as the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, there is nothing economically immoral in the pro-rate program, since that program is obviously in complete harmony with the purposes of the Exchange. Its purpose is the orderly marketing of the farmer's crop at a price which will return him a reasonable profit.

This is a vastly different thing from price fixing by sellers able to tell the consumer that he must pay a certain price or be deprived of a necessity. The orange, in the first place, is not a necessity. It can be sold only when the consumer has been able to supply himself with staple articles of food such as bread and meat. It is bought from surplus in the food budget and can be discarded by the consumer without any hardship on himself. It is absurd, therefore, to suggest that consumer exploitation is possible through any marketing program. The consumer merely buys the orange when the price suits him. He fixes the price.

The grower is under no obligation to give his product away as the consumer is under no obligation to buy it. This constitutes a free market. The newspaper fixes the price of its advertising but the merchant is under no compulsion to buy it. This also is a free market.

Criticism of the pro-rate as an exploitation device is therefore, the result of confusing it with monopolistic price-fixing. It is, in fact, an effort to establish orderly marketing. It is effective when purchasing power in the eastern markets is normal and it wrecks no one.

Fellow Citizens: My economic beliefs lead me to believe that Mr. Hoiles has the cart before the horse—in other words, he contends production supports consumption. In a small measure this is true, but as a total measure, consumption entirely governs production.

Mr. Hoiles contends that if the worker put his extra resources into production our standard of living would be raised and wages would rise as a result. I fail to comprehend the reasoning back of this, although Mr. Hoiles undoubtedly can give us an actual case of such a manipulation.

My theory is this: (maybe I'm wrong, but if I am, then thousands of others are too, including many well read and many good thinkers.)

Production today does not lack capital. Our automobile industry, our steel industries, etc., all have sufficient capital, and modern methods and machinery for production are of the latest design. All the capital of the world in back of any industry today could do no more for turning the wheels of that industry than the present supply of capital it now has at hand.

Two factors govern the production of any industry—namely, distribution and consumption. (Note: I speak of distribution in the sense of dispersing products to their ultimate consumers—sales organizations and freight distributing the products of production.) Distribution depends upon consumption. With a perfect production and distribution of an article the article becomes useless without consumption. Therefore, I rate consumption above production and distribution in our present problem.

One more term now shows up—purchasing power—one that indeed controls consumption, therefore controls distribution and production. This one little phrase is the food for controversy, and I believe the whole battle is to be won through a rational realization on the part of ALL the people of its importance, its creation, its destruction, and its control.

This rational realization can only be brought about through the unveiling of the present habit of our leaders of society and state of issuing false statements, or misleading doctrines of economics for either their own personal betterment or the betterment of both themselves and their "cronies" at the expense of a trusting and befuddled populace, who, as a rule, stand interestedly by and huzzah for the brave attempts of their leaders, little knowing that the whole show is at their expense until the awakening becomes little short of rude.

Volumes could be written on the thousands of angles that perpetuate or dissolve purchasing power. No plan yet presented would rectify 100 per cent of the control or creation, because the magnitude of the factors that control this insignificant phrase (I believe) renders it almost incomprehensible in the mind of any one single individual. Education and time alone will do it, but in the meantime, the realization of the fact that somewhere in this small statement lurks our solution to this man made problem, will not deter us from trying to help out constructively in a small measure toward the solution of the whole.

It so happens that I (at present) believe that the Townsend Plan holds within its borders a step in the right direction. It may not be perfect. Nothing ever has been or ever will be, but let's not waste time by branding each other's pretensions as absurd, crack-pot, visionary, Utopian, or otherwise. Use this useless energy in trying to constructively submit your in-

YOU AND YOUR Nation's Affairs

Whereof This "Liberalism?"

By WALTER E. SPAHR

Professor of Economics, New York University

The New Dealers have constantly dubbed themselves "progressives" and "liberals," and their opponents "reactionaries."

Although much has been written and said about the correct meaning and implication of these terms, it should be easy to see what the words mean.

"Progressive" and "liberal" mean to the New Deal by simply looking at New Deal policies and New Deal adherents.

Being liberal or progressive, according to New Deal standards, means approval of policies that pile up an unprecedented public debt; that create an annual federal deficit; that prepare a huge tax burden for our children.

It means that heavy unemployment and the number of people on relief should be maintained at a persistently high level.

It means that our nation should have a depreciated inconvertible paper money; that the silver interests should be subsidized; that the dollar should be devaluated; and the deposit currency in our banks should be created against the government's illiquid deficit.

It means that the farmers should be subsidized for restricting production while large imports of farm products are permitted.

It means that businessmen must be harassed and oppressed, and the processes of industry dislocated or stopped.

It means the collection of taxes on the wage earner, under the guise of social insurance, and the dissipation of the funds to help the New Dealers carry out their "liberal" policies.

It means a blank check to the President, much of which is used to aid political favorites by giving their constituents bridges, roads, buildings, and so on.

It means keeping many people on relief so that political machines can levy political tribute upon these distressed people.

It means a class struggle, with labor ap-pitted against employers, with labor levied upon to support unwarranted labor bosses, with labor strikes and loss of income, with a Labor Board to keep the pot boiling.

It means an attack by the Chief Executive on the United States Supreme Court.

It means an attempt to pack Congress with yes-men.

It means that all economic issues must be made into political issues to serve the interests of the party in power.

It means what it means to the Communist Party of the United States, which points out that "the reactionaries in both the Democratic and Republican parties have formed a coalition against the progressive principles and measures of the New Deal. The liberals in both parties, together with the labor movement and independent progressives, are uniting their ranks in support of President Roosevelt's program."

The article says further: "The major purpose of the Communist Party is to unify the ranks of liberal and progressive forces. We work for an alliance between the C.I.O. and the A.P. of L. We work for united support for New Deal objectives." Again: "If we are to continue to go forward, we must work together with all those who are united in support of the President's recovery program."

Our party has therefore withdrawn its own candidates wherever there is a clear choice between a liberal and a reactionary candidate."

This Communist publication also carried an enclosure which says that "in the camp of the progressives are President Roosevelt and the New Deal Democrats, the American Labor Party, the masses of organized labor, the Communists, as well as progressive forces generally." This same publication also spoke of the "infamous Dies Committee," which also was condemned by the President and certain members of his cabinet.

Altogether those people who pride themselves on being "liberal" and "progressive" in the New Deal sense should experience little difficulty in identifying their liberalism. It is the "liberalism" which meets the approval of the Communists!

News Behind The News

By PAUL MALLON

World Copyright 1938 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—A survey of Santa Claus' financial backers indicates that old gentleman's bag is going to be bulkier this year.

Although national income payments may not quite reach last December's figure, wholesale prices are about 5 per cent lower. This leads the government surveyors to count confidently on larger volume; and most of them are expecting larger dollar volume even at these reduced prices.

A much better spirit exists this year. Business is looking up; last year it was sliding fast. Unseasonably warm weather this fall also has delayed usual fall buying. Department store sales will probably be 87 per cent of normal (1923-25) for this month and 90 next (compared with 89 in December last year.)

Business itself has shown no symptoms of that doubtful feeling noticeable in the stock market every time Hitler says something or the French get into more trouble. Industrial production will hit 100 this month on a rise continuing since May, increase of 23 points in 6 months. This improvement has regained just about half of what was lost in the last depression decline over a period of 17 months (December 1936-May 1938).

Surprising though it may seem, production has been improving the past six months faster than it went down the preceding 6 months.

For the first time this year we are now above a year ago.

You can measure the rate of increase since May from the monthly business chart which follows: (Each figure is based on 1923-5 averages as 100 and all except employment and payrolls are adjusted for seasonal variations so as to represent the actual percentage of normal attained at times specified.)

Mr. Wallace's wheat export subsidy program, incidentally, is sinking fast.

Some brave figures were put out in the last official publicity hand-out from the agriculture department, but the nubbin in the bin of them was the 18 million bushels of wheat and flour exports up to November 15.

The program calls for 100 million by next July 1. Danger of heavy failure is evident in the fact that the government wanted to get the bulk of its exporting done before the end of this month, when the Argentine crop comes on the world market to compete heavily with us.

If there were any chance of success, the bulk of it should have gone by now.

"Archimedes," read the school-boy aloud, "leaped from his bath shouting, 'Eureka! Eureka!'"

"One moment," said the teacher. "What is the meaning of 'Eureka!'"

"'Eureka!' means 'I have found it,'" said the boy.

"Very well. What had Archimedes found?" questioned the teacher.

The boy hesitated, then ventured hopefully, "The soap, sir."

H. B. Committee To Study Junior College Project

CHAMBER ACTS TO GET FACTS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Nov. 29.—A movement started by two high school youths looking to the establishment of a junior college district here was furthered at a meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce last night.

Committee Named
President L. F. Whittaker appointed a committee consisting of A. W. Frost, A. L. McCormick and H. P. Rampton to study plans proposed by Jack Grey and Bill Redline, sophomores at Huntington Beach Union High school.

The two youths point out that the local high school district has an assessed valuation of $33,470,255, as compared to $27,899,390 for Santa Ana and $33,470,255 for Fullerton.

They want the adult committee to meet with a group of high school students to study plans for the college, the cost, the number of students that might be enrolled, the location and many other matters.

Bowl Plan Backed
Directors of the chamber adopted a resolution endorsing the plan proposed by members of the beach committee of both the city and the chamber of commerce for the construction of an open air bowl on the beach. The resolution asked the city council to approve the plans and have City Engineer Overmyer go ahead with plans to have bowl ready for summer.

The resolution was submitted by the chamber of commerce beach committee, W. J. Bristol, F. E. Bundy and Walter Dabney.

NEW 'Y' SWIM PLAN MAPPED

Swimming classes at the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. between now and February 1, will bring an added incentive to Santa Ana boys who participate, it was believed today. With the announcement that all swimmers will be classified and rated as they show improvement each week.

Working out a novel plan for grouping the swimmers, D. Glenn Tibball hit upon the idea of a chart, which will list all the boys in the class, and then in corresponding columns on the chart will be eight divisions. These divisions are listed by the names of fish.

Divisions Listed
Division No. 1 will be the Sea Horse. In this division boys will be required to swim 20 lengths of the pool or approximately 400 yards to qualify. Then as boys complete division No. 1 they will go to division No. 2, which is listed as the Bullhead and so on to the Buffalo, Sea Bass, Mackerel, Spearfish, Shark and Flying fish. Each succeeding division will require added lengths of the pool to qualify. Boys will not be allowed to swim more than 20 lengths of the pool during one class period, however. The top division which is the Flying fish will require 300 lengths of the pool to qualify and must be completed before Feb. 1.

Tibball announced that there is room on the chart for 31 entrants. The swimming classes are held every Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday at the "Y."

Contest Over $59,095 Estate Ruled Out Of Court

DEFENSE WINS LOCAL BATTLE

The contest brought by a sister and brother of the late John William Newman, of Seal Beach, to break his will which left his $59,095 estate to his widow, Mrs. Catherine L. Newman, was ruled out of court by Superior Judge H. G. Ames yesterday after the contestants had completed their case.

The court granted a defense motion for non-suit, on the ground that the contestants had not established a prima facie case.

End Comes Abruptly

Under this ruling, the defense was not required to present any evidence, and the contest halted abruptly. Mrs. Newman and her daughter, Mrs. Ruth S. Whidden, of Reno, who also had been named a respondent in the contest, smiled happily and shook hands with their attorneys, Stanley Reinhaus and Fred Forgy. Mrs. Julia Smith and her brother, Bernard Newman, of Los Angeles, who thus lost their fight for a share of their brother's estate, left the courtroom immediately with their attorney, J. D. Simon, of Los Angeles.

They had contended that Mrs. Newman had used undue influence on their brother, in the making of his will in her favor. The court ruled that there was no evidence of undue influence shown.

Claim Is Squashed

The contestants further alleged that Mrs. Newman had never been the lawful wife of their brother, because at the time they were married in 1922, she had a husband, Herbert W. Smith, living and undivorced.

That claim was wiped out by a peculiar slip of the contestants themselves, when they called Mrs. Whidden to the stand, and she testified that her father, Herbert W. Smith, had died in 1908.

Their attorney, J. D. Simon, inadvertently paved the way himself for the testimony that thus contradicted their claim that Mrs.

Newman was not the lawful wife of their brother. Attorney Simon had called Mrs. Whidden to the stand to ask questions about the pain tablets being given to John W. Newman during his last illness at Seal Beach in 1937. He wanted to know how gave Newman the tablets and how frequently they were given. But in the routine preliminary questions of identifying the witness's connection with the case he asked her if Herbert W. Smith was her father.

Opens Legal Portal

Attorneys Stanley Reinhaus and Fred Forgy seized this opening and wedged in the testimony regarding Smith's death, when it came their turn to question the witness. Simon had brought Smith into the testimony himself, opening the door for further questions regarding him. Although Simon strenuously objected that the daughter knew of her father's death only through hearsay, which testimony is not admissible, Judge Ames sustained Reinhaus's contention that family history is an exception to the hearsay rule.

In Coroner's Notice

Mrs. Whidden testified that her mother had told her of her father's death and she also had seen documentary evidence, such as a coroner's notice. Reinhaus then introduced the coroner's notice, referring to the death of H. W. Smith in an accidental fall from a painter's scaffolding in San Francisco August 14, 1908.

Simon again objected that H. W. Smith didn't necessarily mean Herbert W. Smith. It might be Hiram or Henry, he argued. But Reinhaus pointed out that the coroner wouldn't notify Herbert Smith's wife, if Hiram or Henry were killed.

Approximately 4000 fugitives from justice, in the United States, are detected by fingerprints annually.

Deanna Durbin Is Star At Broadway

"That Certain Age," starring Deanna Durbin, is different. As Deanna grows older, her stories are carefully tailored to her age. This picture, opening today at the Broadway, is lighter in theme than her others, but no less powerful in entertainment content, it was said.

Starring Deanna, with Melvyn Douglas, Irene Rich, Jackie Cooper, John Halliday, Juanita Quigley, Jackie Searle, Peggy Stewart, Nancy Carroll and Charles Coleman, "That Certain Age" tells the story of a young girl, nearing 16, who meets a war correspondent and fancies herself violently in love with him. Temporarily infatuated with him, she forgets her younger "boy friend" and her childish playmates until it is brought home to her that she is still a child, and that romantic love has no place in her life. Packed with clever comedy, brilliant dialog and the beauty of Deanna's singing voice, "That Certain Age" is said to be Deanna's best to date.

The second attraction is "Annabel Takes a Tour", a swift-moving comedy featuring Jackie Oakie and Lucille Ball in the top roles.

The blue whale, caught in the Antarctic, measures up to 100 feet in length and is the largest mammal in the world.

41 "ASSORTED" LAGUNA CATS AND DOGS IN RED CROSS DRIVE!

With Laguna Beach safely over the top, and rating first in the recent county-wide Red-Cross drive, the tale can now be told concerning forty-one assorted cats and dogs, each now a full-fledged member of the Red Cross, with card, button, and full 1938-'39 standing.

The zoological miscellany attracted much attention when, at strategic points, members of the cat and dog corps assisted the captains under Mrs. Harry Gordon Martin, heading the local drive.

Here's the List
Taking the forty-first out first, his name is Ali Baba; and, skipping wise cracks about 40 thieves and such, the names of the animals follow, with owners' surnames used for further identification:

Dogs: Nip and Tuck Perrin, Napoleon Generoux, Archibald Jiggs Klipp, Nazi Childs, Stinky Olson, Janey Sheppard, Uno Jester, Cutey Schwanhorn, Duke Bird, Icard Brayton, Duchess Swanson, T. Jefferson Benson, Sonny Raney, Tip-py-Tin Reimer, Nippy O'Dell, Zoolie Wightman, Kurt Lucas and Xmas Jurgens, with the following cats as auxiliaries:
Mike Langskov, Pickens Pavey, Juliette Reiser, Rusty Avis, Dominic and Gomez O'Sullivan, and Five Sullivan Quints, an assortment of felines seldom seen apart. Pickens Pavey wears a medal bestowed for life-saving, earned last year when, after a flood has extinguished a gas-heater, filling the house with fumes, the cat awakened several sleeping occupants of the Pavey home, saving them from possible asphyxiation.

Jimmie Fidler in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 29.—Over the second cup of coffee last night, argument ran riot. "Who," someone demanded, "are the twelve most beautiful women in Hollywood?" No two opinions dovetailed and each picker militantly declined to make a concession. Thinking it over this morning, now that the smoke of battle has cleared away, it seems to me that our fallacy was the attempt to lump different TYPES of beauty into one, and grade our candidates by a single standard. There are at least a dozen different kinds of beauty in Hollywood—and I'm going to make myself a target by naming those stars who, in my opinion, best illustrate each type. Here goes—and don't shoot until you see the whites of my eyes. (I'll keep them closed!)

Patrician beauty—Madeleine Carroll; cold beauty—Kay Francis; warm beauty—Myrna Loy; sophisticated beauty—Marlene Dietrich; determined beauty—Joan Crawford; studied beauty—Norma Shearer; passionate beauty—Hedy Lamarr; mischievous beauty—Sonja Henie; spiritual or innocent beauty—Deanna Durbin; childish beauty—Maureen O'Sullivan; sexy beauty—Ann Sheridan; and exotic beauty—Merle Oberon.

On second thought, don't bother shooting if you disagree. It isn't necessary—for that job will be taken care of in masterly fashion when my wife sees this list.

Two Oil Men Burned In Spectacular Fire

S. A. ECONOMIC GROUP TO ACT

Evidence that Orange county chambers of commerce are taking an active part in the new trend in chambers that "the business man must get into politics," three representatives of the Santa Ana chamber of commerce will attend the two-day session of the Economic Council of Southern California starting at 2 p. m. Friday, December 2, at the Biltmore hotel, Los Angeles.

Legislative Problems
Those who likely will attend the afternoon session include V. C. Jerome, Fred G. Merker, and C. H. Holles. This group will devote itself to a discussion of legislative and economic problems.

At 4:30 p. m. Friday the Council will meet with Congressmen of the state at which time Spanish Land Grants measures, tideland oil ownership, the agricultural picture and community property will be discussed by economic leaders of the Southland.

The Saturday morning session will be devoted to a business session following which a number of the representatives to the conclave will attend the University of Southern California-Notre Dame game.

BLAZE WRECKS H. B. DERRICK

Two oil workers were painfully burned in a spectacular oil well fire last evening which destroyed a wooden derrick and equipment of the Petrol Oil company located at the northwest corner of Sixteenth street and Walnut avenue in the heart of the town-lot oil field in Huntington Beach.

Although no figure has been given of the loss, according to oil men the amount probably will figure about $12,000.

Burned About Face
While the flames shot skyward from top to bottom of the derrick, flaming timber falling about endangered six 1000-barrel and two 50-barrel tanks filled with oil. During the hour between 6 p. m. and 7 p. m. when the derrick was blazing the base of an adjoining idle wooden derrick, was damaged by fire, and oil on the ground about the tanks flamed hot.

L. H. Billingsley, 50, of 2439 East Anaheim street, Long Beach, suffered first and second degree burns about the face and hands and was rushed to the Community Hospital in Long Beach. His fellow workman, Fred C. Gras, aged 22, of 1106 16th street, Gardena, received first and second degree burns on the face, hands and legs. Although his pants were burned from his body he was not dangerously burned.

Rushed to Hospital

Both were rushed to Dr. B. H. Hardy's Emergency Hospital. Dr. Hardy being out of town, Dr. L. F. Whittaker was summoned from his own hospital and he dressed the wounds of the injured.

Quick action on the part of the Huntington Beach Fire Department, working under the direction of Fire Chief J. K. Sargent, avoided a serious fire which might have spread to the tanks and to other derricks in the closely drilled area. It was a stubborn fight for the firemen to extinguish the fire which blazed from the gas rushing from the tideland producer.

The fire was caused from friction when the workmen were balling the well preparatory to putting it back into production.

Blast Tears Hole In Ship's Hull

Here is the gaping hole torn in the hull of the Nazi steamship Vancouver when a mysterious bomb exploded below the waterline just as the ship was leaving Alameda, Calif., estuary. State and Federal agencies investigating the explosion have failed to find a solution but are convinced the bomb was placed in position by someone having accurate knowledge of the ship's construction.

MAJORITIES RANGING FROM 8 TO 14,000 TALLIED IN COUNTY

Majorities ranging from 8 to 14,000 were shown in the official totals of the vote cast in Orange county at the general election November 8, as made public today by County Clerk Basil J. Smith.

David Fairbairn, assistant county jailer, won the office of justice of the peace in Orange township by 8 votes over Justice Cal D. Lester. At the other end of the scale was Sheriff-elect J. L. Elliott, with a majority of exactly 14,000 over Sheriff Logan Jackson.

Three Win By 130
Three candidates in the county won their offices by 130 votes. They were Franklin G. West, elected judge of superior court over Kenneth E. Morrison; Constable E. D. Marion, of Anaheim township, re-elected over Homer Wallace; and Constable-elect Herman Drent, of Seal Beach, who defeated David Emery.

The totals released today include the absentee vote. They show that Governor Frank F. Merriam defeated Governor-elect Culbert Olson in Orange county by 5517 votes; Dr. W. S. Franklin led Ellis Patterson here by 5393; Sheridan Downey had a margin of 935 over Philip Bancroft, and Earl Warren was elected attorney-general with a plurality of 22,488 over his nearest rival, Carl Kegley, the write-in candidate.

Ames Comes Next
Among local candidates, Superior Judge H. G. Ames of Anaheim was next to Elliott in size of majority, having defeated James L. Davis by 6772. District Attorney-elect George Holden, of Anaheim, led District Attorney W. F. Menton by 6610.

For congress, Congressman Harry Sheppard, Democratic incumbent, had a majority of 1559 in Orange county over his Republican opponent, Mayor C. T. Johnson, of San Bernardino.

In the two assembly districts of the county, Assemblyman Clyde

FARM BUREAU IN SUCCESSFUL FIGHT AGAINST RATE BOOSTS

While the problems involved in transportation matters continue to be major ones for California agriculture, the farm bureau has already successfully opposed applications by inter-coastal and rail carriers for material increases in interstate transportation rates. R. W. Hull, president of the Orange County farm bureau said today.

"Our organization," he said, "has also been successful in preventing the establishment of intra-state truck rates covering the movement of practically all agricultural products in California. In both instances, therefore, our farm bureau has been responsible for large savings to our farmers and ranchers."

Large Savings Cited
"During the past year, in cooperation with other groups, the farm bureau has defeated California growers against rates proposed by Arizona shippers which would have given those shippers a 10 per cent advantage over California growers and shippers."

"Our organization now is contending for more reasonable interstate rates, based on the cost of the most economical form of transportation available to perform the needed service. We are confident of success along this line."

"At this very time, proceedings are under way whereby transcontinental rail carriers hope to obtain increased transportation charges by the simple method of increasing the estimated weights used in shipping fruits and vegetables."

Rail Increase Opposed
"Through our state Law and Utilities department, we are making every possible effort to protect the interests of our growers and shippers in this serious matter. "It is generally conceded that the farm bureau has merited the credit given to the organization for its judicious and successful leadership in working toward an economic balance between farm incomes and transportation charges."

NEBRASKANS TO PICNIC
The Belvidere, Neb., club picnic will be held Sunday, December 4 at Jack Fisher park. Participants will assemble at 11 a. m., and basket lunch will be served early in the afternoon.

Supervisors' Race
Supervisor contests show Willis Warner, of Huntington Beach, defeated Supervisor John Mitchell, of Garden Grove, in the second district, by 1742, and that Supervisor N. E. West, Laguna Beach, kept his seat in the fifth district by a margin of 2313 over Councilman Lloyd Claire, of Newport Beach.

Justice Charles Kuchel, of Anaheim township, had a margin of 221 over Eldon Stark.

CONSIDER NEW MARKET PLANS

New marketing developments are being considered for California's vegetable growers, now representing a huge share of the state's agricultural output, according to Thomas A. Robertson, chairman, vegetable department, California Farm Bureau federation, who has just returned from a series of conferences with Washington officials.

Proposals Advocated
Robertson sent word to the growers in Orange county that Secretary Wallace, Triple A and Department of Agriculture officials are now weighing three proposals for legislative and economic aid to the nation's vegetable industry, faced with increasing production trends.

"In the order in which these proposals are being considered as to practicability and effectiveness," said Robertson, member of the executive committee of national vegetable conference, "they are as follows:

"1. Use of marketing orders with quotas to restrict movement of vegetables to markets so as to obtain better returns for growers.

"2. Fixing of minimum prices and establishment of bases for purchases and sale, including grades.

New Act Considered

"3. A separate act for the vegetable industry, similar to the Sugar act, providing three features, including: production quotas fixed by the Secretary of Agriculture; an excise tax on processors; and benefit payments to producers based on reduction of acreage and beneficial conservation practices."

The conference included representatives of the leading vegetable and potato producing states, said Robertson, as well as officials of the Agricultural Adjustment administration, United States Department of Agriculture, and the College of Agriculture.

Sentiment, he added, seems to lean toward the first proposal, which closely approaches the operations of the pro-rate programs now being employed by California fruit, vegetable and other specialty growers in California.

SOCIETY AND CLUBS WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

Two Pleasant Parties Are House-warming Events

Week-end festivities in the charming new home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde A. Martin at 2303 North Flower street, included two house-warming parties planned to surprise the hosts. The Martins moved only recently from Anaheim and members of their Anaheim bridge club planned the first party, an event of Saturday evening.

The self-invited guests planned the whole merry evening, including prizes in bridge play, and the refreshment course served as a finale. To their hosts, they presented a pretty bedspread for use in the new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Fleming were the only Santa Anans present with the exception of Mr. and Mrs. Martin, while Anaheim friends included Messrs. and Mesdames Lawrence Poirier, Carl Wollerman, Earl Jackson, Fran Elliott, Henry Bamesberger, Clinton Griggs, William Troutman, Joseph Scholtz, Wilbert Heiden and Miss Doris Reese.

Sunday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Martin were taken quite as completely by surprise by the arrival of a group of relatives with everything planned for the guests of garden breakfast. The garden grill came into its first use for preparing the menu, which was shared by Messrs. and Mesdames Ollie Eager, Paul McClester and sons, Paul Jr. and Donald, R. L. Martin, and the Misses Velma Martin and Lila Hadlock.

In the group with the hostesses were Mrs. Reed's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Guthrie and daughter, and son, Mary and William, Hollywood; and a sister, Mrs. Mary Belle Binkley, Long Beach.

IN NORTH HOLLYWOOD

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Peters, 110 West First street and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Golden and children, Gloria and Bruce, 1004 Kilson Drive spent Sunday in North Hollywood with Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson.

Completing the family party were Mr. and Mrs. Al Dubaux and daughter, Mrs. Violet Hull of North Hollywood, who had just returned from a trip to Minneapolis, Minn., and so brought interesting news of other members of the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Golden were hosts to the group of relatives on Thanksgiving day.

White Shrine Officers Pay Dinner Honors To Deputy

Combining a welcome home to Mr. and Mrs. Willard Patterson, so recently returned from an eastern trip, with a special courtesy to Mrs. Patterson, deputy supreme worthy high priestess of White Shrine of Jerusalem, officers of Damascus White Shrine entertained with a buffet dinner in the Walter Wright home, 421 Orange avenue.

Mrs. Wright, who is worthy high priestess of Damascus Shrine, planned the delicious menu with the assistance of her officers, and Mr. Wright took over the duty of making and serving the amber coffee.

Small tables, bright with flowers and candles, were used for the dinner hour, and later served in the games session of the evening when bridge, Chinese checkers and bingo all had their devotees. As a climax to the pleasant affair, the officers presented Mrs. Patterson with a handsome circular mirror in appreciation of her fine services in the deputy's post. The gift was a complete surprise to the honor guest, but she rose to the occasion with a gracious little speech of acceptance.

Wide Interest Shown As Couple Observe Anniversary

Mrs. Ben Danker of Olive and Mrs. Charles J. Weaver of Downey entertained Sunday evening in honor of the silver wedding anniversary of Mrs. Weaver's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Preston, who were married November 26, 1913 in Redlands by the Rev. F. D. Ashley. The Rev. Mr. Ashley had been the couple's minister at Garden Grove before being transferred to Redlands just two months preceding the wedding 25 years ago.

Guests assembled early in the evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Preston in Downey, where a program was presented by Ivan Tournat of Santa Ana, who played accordion solos; Miss Barbara Danker, who gave a reading; and Miss Rita Preston, who played piano numbers. This was followed by a mock wedding in which little Miss Shelley Ray Jones was the bride; Drury Danker, the bridegroom; Margaret Jones, flower girl; Willard Danker, ring bearer; Ivan Tournat, minister. The ceremony used had been written by Mrs. Thomas Tournat of this city, who also presented boutonnières or corsage bouquets to the honored couple, their daughters, and members of the wedding party.

After the nuptials, the group went to the door of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Weaver, where supper was served from a table made lovely with a white cloth and gleaming silver and china. Mr. and Mrs. Preston cut the elaborately decorated wedding cake, ringed with tall tapers.

Returning to the Preston home, games were played, with prizes going to Mrs. Laura Smith, Ben Danker, Mrs. Preston and William Guest. As a token of friendship Mr. and Mrs. Preston were presented with a purse filled with silver.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tournat and son, Ivan, Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Tournat and daughter; the William Harpers and Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Smith, Garden Grove; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jones and family, Oceanview; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Winters, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. J. Present with the hostess were the Misses Jean Gaspar, Estelle Schlesinger, Geraldine Hauptert, Dorine Hauptert, Bernice Borchard and Mesdames Bert Hoffman, Hugh McKemy, Perry Davis, Albert Banks, Burley Durbin and Albert Markel.

Joining Mr. and Mrs. Dike, their son and Miss Sawyer Sunday for dinner in the Redlands home were the Santa Anans' parents and grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sawyer and Mrs. Laura Kesemann.

Sorority Rush Season Opened for Delta Theta Chi Group

Launching their autumn rush season, Delta Theta Chi Sorority members entertained last night with Miss Daisy Carr as hostess in her home, 2425 North Park boulevard.

Green and gold of sorority colors appeared in various decorative designs, but none more charming than the quaint little yarn figurines that as favors, served to distinguish members and rushees. When whoopee was introduced as the evening's entertainment, there were various amusing galloping prizes worn by the special guests, while prize for high score, a set of down puffs, went to Miss Ann Detweiler.

When refreshments were served, small tables had lace-frilled colonial bouquets of baby 'mums' in tawny gold and bronze shades. Favors for the rushees were key rings with tropical fish and the sorority letters. Miss Frances Hill, social chairman, assisted Miss Carr in all her plans for the party.

Members present with the hostess were Mesdames T. E. McLeod, Emmett Seacord, Helen Lee Goldsmith, Clarence Hedrick (Dorothy Joesse), Harvey Doshen (Mary Bowyer) and the Misses Ann Detweiler, Leone Baxter, Norma Jean Kenny, Betty Vorce, Alice Whitten, Irene Ross, Frances Hill, Leone McFarren, Adeline Loptien.

Sorority Pledges Give Backward Party for Chapter Members

Friendly plans made by three Delta Chi Sigma sorority pledges, the Misses Althea Modene, Helen Paul and Betty Reade, took chapter members to Compton last night, where they were delightfully entertained in the home of Miss Modene.

All details of the evening were planned on the backward idea, and guests went in appropriate costumes to take part in the merriest. Chinese checkers were played, and prizes awarded the Misses Lorene Shippe and Henrietta Rurup. A dessert course concluded the evening's hospitality.

After planning a dinner dance to be enjoyed at an early date, the next chapter meeting on Monday night, December 5, was announced as an event with Miss Dorothy Hanna, 418 Wilshire avenue.

The three pledge hostesses had as their guests, Mesdames James Newman, Corwin Frazee, Lloyd Manderscheid, the Misses Dorothy Hanna, Eileen McCollum, Margaret Westover, Kathleen Maddock, Helen Manderscheid, Alice Martin, Carol Smith, Vivienne White, Lorene Shippe, Kay Carter, Dorothy Baker, Henrietta Jinnett and Henrietta Rurup.

Years Spent in Orient Are Described For Sorority Alumnae

When Orange county alumnae of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority met last night with Miss Lucille Lawson, 231 West Whiting avenue, Fullerton, they were privileged to hear Mrs. G. E. Holmes describe her experiences and observations as a resident for several years, in the Orient and also in India.

It provided an evening of rare enjoyment, especially in conjunction with the home and textiles, the china and pottery and other things of beautiful Oriental workmanship that are some of the fruits of Mrs. Holmes' travels. The guest speaker also was asked to preside at the silver tea urn when Miss Lawson completed her hospitality with the serving of tempting refreshments.

Miss Adelaide Young presided over a short business meeting during which it was decided to omit a December meeting because of the busy holiday season. On January 22, Miss Helen Westering and Mrs. Newell Moore will entertain in Mrs. Moore's home, 2430 French street.

Present last night with hostess and guest speaker were Mrs. Moore, Mrs. DeRoy Dickson and Miss Westering of this city, with Mrs. Noral Evans, the Misses Agnes Nelson, Betty Bender, Kay Bradford, Adelaide Young, Valberg Linde, Madalyn Snell and Doris Nelson of other Orange county cities.

Pretty Home is Scene Of Bridal Shower

That charming home at 1213 South Flower street where the Jack Schillings have been living since their marriage early in the fall, was scene of a bridal shower Saturday afternoon when Mrs. Schilling (Lora Ella Pierce) entertained in honor of Miss Adelaide French.

Miss French, former Huntington Park friend of the hostess, and Thomas Mills of Huntington Park will be married Thursday at a quiet ceremony, it was announced.

Twenty close friends motored over from Huntington Park for the delightful reunion. Since this was the first time that several of the group had visited the young couple's honeymoon home, there was a general session of inspection.

Assisting the hostess were her mother and her husband's mother, Mrs. J. W. Pierce and Mrs. Robert Schilling. Refreshments were served at the close of a session of games of appropriate nature. Yellow and rust-hued chrysanthemums were used in decorating.

Yuletide Party Plans Made When Quill Pen Club Meets

It was a very interesting program which Quill Pen club members shared last night as guests of their president, Mrs. William Fritchler, 1312 South Flower street. Both verse and prose figured on this program, following a business session devoted to Christmas party plans.

A radio adaptation of one of her own published magazine stories was read by Mrs. Blanche Brown, under the title of "All Aboard." After a general discussion of the new form, members asked the author to read the original story for comparison. Miss Verna Wells followed with "That Wild Fire," a well constructed short story, and the program closed with the reading of an untitled poem by Mrs. Marsh Adams.

For their meeting on the night of December 12, members will be entertained by Mrs. Roy Winchester, 2516 North Park boulevard, and the Christmas party will be with Mrs. Marshall Harriot, 414 East Walnut street. Party plans include the Quill Pen Annual, for which Mrs. T. M. Hollowell as editor in chief, made her various assignments. The evening closed with the serving of refreshments.

Mrs. John P. Powell of Orange was a guest who shared the evening with club members.

Widely-traveled Man Feted at Dinner In This City

There was an exchange of information on California and South Africa at a recent dinner party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Le Ray Quick, 2484 Heliotrope Drive, where a friendly group assembled to meet John Coleman, who spends much of his time in South Africa.

Mr. Coleman, who has been in America studying textiles, already is en route to Switzerland to further this project. Employed for a firm with headquarters in England, he makes his home in South Africa and travels extensively in carrying on his work. He displayed a number of pictures of his home country. Of special interest to the group was his description of the South African game refuges where antelope, zebras, rhinoceroses and other wild animals are allowed to roam in their native manner.

Mr. Coleman was as interested in hearing about California and the United States in general as other guests were in learning about South Africa, so there was a general give and take during the evening.

Dinner was served from a table centered with an arrangement of autumn leaves and persimmons whose bright hues were matched by tall tapers. In the group with Mr. and Mrs. Quick and son, Herman, were their close friends, Mr. and Mrs. M. Wagner of Los Angeles, with whom Mr. Coleman has been visiting; John J. Johnson and Mrs. Frank H. Heine of this city; Laurer Roosevelt of Arcadia and the guest of honor.

Excellent Talk Given By University Head For Ebell Club

Asserting that friction between individuals and peoples is a universal tendency, Dr. Elam J. Anderson, president of Redlands University, yesterday explained to Ebell society members and their guests, that his lecture subject, "The Technique of Good Will," was far from being the trivial theme that might be thought.

Dr. Anderson, who was introduced by Mrs. Roy Shafer, program chairman, after Mrs. W. S. Thomson concluded a brief business session of the society, proved to be a forceful speaker who was keenly appreciated by the clubwomen and their guests, the young people of Santa Ana Junior college. In developing his subject, he pointed out that scientists and educators the world over, have been attempting to solve the problem of how human beings may live together with the minimum of friction and the maximum of ease.

This friction is expressed in the strife in China—internecine because the combating nations are of similar racial antecedents; in the European situation, and finally in our own country where C. I. O. and A. F. of L. are opposed and yet both claim to be attempting to promote the interests and welfare of the labor classes. He pointed out also, that there is a measure of justification for Hitler's slurs on our country when we remember our race problem in the south, and the west coast legislation against entry of Japanese.

It is his contention that there never was a difference of opinion, whether between individuals, races of countries, that there was not a modicum of right on each side. When such matters are settled by arbitration and not by force, we will reach that goal of peace towards which we are striving.

Preceding this thoughtful address, clubwomen heard with interest, accounts of the recent district convention at Hotel Coronado. Mrs. Thomson had expressed gratification at the club's excellent representation, and asked Mrs. Aldrie Worswick to tell of the first day's happenings. Mrs. T. R. Trawick told of the second, and Mrs. Fred Rowland of the final day's convalescence. The latter spoke also of the honor coming to Orange county clubwomen when Mrs. E. E. Smith of Anaheim, takes over the district presidency, and when the present county federation president, Mrs. R. G. Miller of Huntington Beach, goes in as a member of the state federation board.

Text Of Christian Science Lecture

COLIN EDDISON SPEAKS IN S. A.

Mr. Colin Rucker Eddison, C. S., of London, England, a member of The Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, delivered a lecture in the church edifice, Tenth and Main streets, last evening, entitled “Christian Science: The Science of Christ-Healing” under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Santa Ana.

The lecturer spoke substantially as follows:

It is recorded in the Gospel of John that Christ Jesus declared, “This is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent.” Life eternal, that abundant life which Jesus said that he came to give, implies more than mere existence. It includes health, freedom, happiness—all that makes life worth having. “This is life eternal,” the Master said—not shall be; and what mankind needs, what we all long for, is present salvation from all problems and perplexities that beset us, from sin and sorrow, from sickness and from lack. Christian Science teaches and proves that such deliverance is possible here and now through a right understanding of God, as Jesus indicated.

Christian Scientists turn naturally to the Bible to learn about God, for no body of people holds the Bible in greater reverence. It was in the Bible that Mrs. Eddy discerned the truths she afterwards set out in the Christian Science textbook, and the Bible grows more and more important to them in their daily lives as they study its pages in the light thrown upon them by Christian Science. Throughout the Old Testament may be discerned a gradually developing concept of the nature of God; a concept sometimes overlaid with primitive notions of a God of battles, swayed by human passions such as revenge or favoritism; at other times more spiritual and universal in its meaning. Thus we may trace in the Old Testament the thought of God as infinite, as omnipotent, as all-knowing and eternal, the intelligent source and cause of everything that exists.

It is, however, in the New Testament, more especially, of course, in the life and work of Christ Jesus, that we find the clearest, the most convincing explanation and demonstration of what God is. Sitting by the well-side at Sychar, Jesus said plainly to the Samaritan, “God is a Spirit.” And the supreme revelation of God's nature made by our Master, in his teaching, in his works of healing, in his whole life of patient self-sacrifice, was that God is Love.

As a result of her deep and persistent study of the Scriptures and of her spiritual inspiration Mrs. Eddy was able to answer the question “What is God?” in the Christian Science textbook as follows: “God is incorporeal, divine, supreme, infinite Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love” (Science and Health, p. 465). This, then, is the God whom Christian Science enables us to know and understand, and to find “forever near,” because, being infinite, He is ever present.

Jesus and Christ
The way in which Christian Science enables us to know God is by helping us to understand more intelligently the life and work of Christ Jesus. Jesus, once asked his disciples a momentous question. There were current among his contemporaries many different views and theories about him. Some people thought he was John the Baptist, others thought he was Elijah, or one of the prophets risen again. Jesus rejected all such fantastic speculations and said to his disciples, “But whom say ye that I am?” Peter answered, “Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.” That Jesus approved this answer and regarded it as important is shown by his reply, “Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-jona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven.”

What, then, is the meaning of this title “Christ”? Christian Science explains that there is a distinction between “Jesus” and “Christ”; the term “Christ” is not merely a synonym for “Jesus.” Jesus was the best and truest of men who ever lived. His example remains forever as the standard for Christian living. He is the Way-shower, in whose footsteps Christian Scientists endeavor humbly to follow. It is impossible to exaggerate the debt which the world owes to the Founder of Christianity. He went about doing good—he healed the sick, fed the hungry, raised the dead. He imposed upon his followers that great code of love, one another. By his victory over the forces of evil and his resurrection he proved that life is spiritual and eternal.

What was it that enabled him to do all this? Christian Science teaches that it was the Christ Truth, which Jesus understood in fullest measure. Jesus, as Mrs. Eddy has pointed out, is a human name which the Master shared with others of his race; divine on the other hand, is a title which refers to the spiritual nature, which he expressed throughout his life and teaching. In Science and Health (p. 583) may be found this definition of Christ: “The divine manifestation of God, which comes to the flesh to destroy incarnate error.” That which is manifest is clear, plainly understood. It was, then, the Master's clear apprehension of what God is that entitled him to be called “Christ Jesus,” and that healed and saved those who turned to him for help. It was upon his healing work that Jesus relied to substantiate the truth of what he taught and to confirm Peter's acknowledgment of him as the Christ. And today it is by his healing and regenerating work that Christian Science confirms and substantiates its teachings, and its claim to reveal to this age the Christ, Truth, which made Jesus the Messiah.

The Will of God

It is said of Jesus in the epistle to the Hebrews, “Lo, I come . . . to do thy will, O God,” a statement confirmed by many of our Lord's own sayings. His works illustrate and demonstrate the will of God. When with a word Jesus stilled the storm which seemed to threaten the disciples' safety, he proved that the terrible destructive forces of nature are contrary to the will of God. When he fed the multitudes with resources impossibly small from a material standpoint, he proved that material limitation is not in conformity with God's will. He showed by healing the sick that disease and infirmity are not the will of God. By raising the dead he proved that death is not the will of God. What did these works of Jesus prove? God's will for man to be? Surely the opposite of the conditions which he destroyed: peace, health, freedom of spiritual substance, the freedom and vitality of health, life in all its full abundance. He brought these positive realities to men's experience through his knowledge of the Christ.

This leads to another point for consideration. Can that which is contrary to the will of God have any real existence? Since God is infinite Mind, the only cause and creator, the sole source of existence, only that which is in accordance with His will can be real. Christian Science holds that sin, disease, disaster, lack, sorrow, are unreal because they are incompatible with the nature of God, who is infinite Life, Truth, and Love. Indeed Christian Science goes further and declares that neither matter nor evil has any real existence, since God is infinite Spirit and is infinitely good. That such a conclusion as Scriptural authority is clear. Our Master said, “It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing.” When matter is profited nothing, as described as having been bowed to Satan, the devil, had bound her—elsewhere he said of the devil, or evil, that “he was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him.” That which has no truth in it cannot be real. Christian Science teaches that sin and all its manifestations are unreal, unreal, and the destruction by Christ Jesus of sin, disease, death—all manifestations of evil—confirms that conclusion.

How are we to explain the apparent reality of evil, of sin, disease, cruelty, and so on? What seems to be true but is not true is a misconception, a false belief. Misconceptions about anything are removed when they are corrected by acquaintance with the true facts. Jesus said, “Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.” The truth which makes us free is not truth but error, not real but unreal. The Christian Scientist is not so much concerned to wonder where the false belief, the illusion, of sin and disease came from, as to prove their illusory nature by reforming character and healing sickness.

Christian Science Discovered

Did the Christ disappear beyond the reach of human recognition when Jesus rose above men's sight in his ascension? Christ is Truth and therefore is eternal, ever present, always available to be understood. “Throughout all generations,” we read in the Christian Science textbook (p. 333), “both before and after the Christian era, the Christ, as the spiritual idea, the reflection of God, has come with some measure of power and grace to all prepared to receive Christ, Truth.” Just as the Christ is the reflection of God, so the statement caught glimpses of the truth about God and man, so also since the beginning of the Christian era men of deep spiritual insight have also perceived something of that same truth, and this perception has enabled them to bring help, comfort, and spiritual progress to the world.

Then in the year 1866 the Christ was revealed, as never before since the time of Jesus, to Mary Baker Eddy. By her devotion to the things of Spirit, was indeed “prepared to receive Christ, Truth.” In her autobiography, “Retrospection and Introspection,” and elsewhere in her writings, she has recorded how, after sustaining a severe accident, she was lying in a seriously injured condition and turned to the Bible for help and consolation. She there read the story of the healing of the man sick of the palsy, with the result that she was able to rise from her bed and join her friends in a room down the street where they were waiting for her to pass away. Mrs. Eddy's turning to God in this extremity proved the present operation of that same divine law that was demonstrated in the healing work of Christ Jesus. God had been made manifest to her; the Christ had come to her consciousness and he restored her to health by expressing such problems as this time with a friend as follows: “A dear old lady asked me, ‘How is it that you are restored to us? Has Christ come again on earth?’ ‘Christ never left,’ I replied; ‘Christ is Truth, and Truth is always here.’” (Miscellaneous Writings, p. 180).

Mrs. Eddy was not content to leave the matter there. She realized that she must share her knowledge with the world. Thanks to her understanding of the Science of Christ has been stated in clear and unmistakable language in the Christian Science textbook, “Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures,” and in Mrs. Eddy's other writings. Anyone who cares to study these works in conjunction with the Bible may learn the truth about God and man, and so find that divine Love is manifest in human experience today in the healing of sickness and sin, just as it was in the first days of the Christian era.

Mrs. Eddy was alone responsible for the discovery of Christian Science and for its establishment. She organized The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, founded its periodicals, guided its early footsteps, and safely protected its future growth and development by providing it with its Rules and By-Laws in the Church Manual.

There is little wonder that the vast number of people who have found health and happiness through the teachings of Christian Science, who have above all found God, a divine Principle on whom they can rely for guidance and protection both in the small and great things of life, are unreservedly grateful to Mrs. Eddy for her work. They recognize that only one who lived close to God, and who expressed throughout her life that purity and nobility of character which come only from unswerving obedience to divine Principle, could have made such blessings available to themselves and to all mankind. In the words of King Lemuel in the book of Proverbs, “Let her own works praise her in the gates.”

Repentance and Healing

It must not be thought that the salvation which Christian Science offers is salvation only from physical difficulties and discomforts. Indeed, some of the most far-reaching and beneficial work which Christian Science has done is in the healing of faults of character, in the destruction of sin. Jesus said, “Repent; for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.” There is more in repentance than mere regret. The Greek word translated “repent” means “change your thought.” Sorrow for sin is essential; sin will never be abandoned so long as it is not regretted, deeply and sincerely. Regret alone, however, does not expose sin's unreality. Unreal it must be, since it is inconsistent with the infinite goodness of God.

Repentance must be more than regret—it must be complete change of thought. As soon as the sinner begins to understand the perfection of God, and His reflection man, he sees that his indulgence in sin means that he has been believing in something that is unreal. When he fully grasps the unreality of the sin that is before him he is freed from its bondage. But salvation from sin's beliefs is not enough. To say sin is unreal and willfully to indulge it is dishonest, and can only prolong the belief in separation from God and the consequent suffering inseparable from sin until it is abandoned. Conversely, freedom from sin is only fully gained when the unreality of sin is understood.

That repentance is essential to the destruction of sin is generally agreed. Yet have not thought, perhaps, that we must also repent of sickness and disease if we are to be free from them. Yet repentance, or change of thought, in connection with physical difficulties, in fact in connection with all difficulties, is the only way to their solution.

Let us consider this more in detail. Suppose, for instance, someone suffering from a so-called hereditary disease turns to God for help. He begins to learn that God is the only creator of man, as Jesus recognized when he said to his disciples, “Call no man your father upon the earth: for one is your Father, which is in heaven.” The sufferer realizes that, in truth, God is his only ancestor. Then his beliefs about his so-called inheritance begin to alter. He sees that since God is his Father, his inheritance is one of good, of truth, of life; that as good, God can express only that which is sound and pure and Godlike. Instead of thinking of his seeming material inheritance of sickness, he declares, with the Psalmist, “yea, I have a goodly heritage.” The fear engendered by a false material belief of heredity is broken, and the sufferer finds himself free.

Fear Eliminated

It is said, “The fear is broken.” One of the greatest blessings wrought by the repentance or change of thinking which Christ, Truth, brings to us, is freedom from fear. Fear is the great enslaver of mortals. It is proverbial that it is not the evils in human experience themselves that are our worst tormentors, but our fear of them. Christian Science shows us that fear lies at the root of all disease, and it gives us that understanding of divine Love which destroys fear. If fear were eliminated from human consciousness, not only would the main factor in disease be destroyed, but the solution of all social, industrial, and international difficulties would speedily be reached. It is fear, in one or other of its many forms, which underlies industrial upheavals and is the source of international tension and of war. There is only one thing which will finally and fully solve such problems, and that is the understanding that God is Love. “Perfect love,” John said, “casteth out fear.” Nothing else can or will. As men learn to know that God is Love, and that man is Love's reflection or expression, their fears begin to abate. They begin to realize that infinite Love could not do less than provide all that is necessary for the life and happiness of its children. Then, as the essences, thoughts of envy, resentment, competition, and rivalry cease to predominate, peace of mind and a sense of security take their place. Christian Scientists are proving this to be true in their individual experience, within the range of their own daily lives—in their homes, in business, in their several communities. As this individual experience gathers force—and it is doing so daily—it must have its effect in the wider sphere of national and international affairs, until the universal brotherhood of man becomes an accomplished fact. Meanwhile, to think lovingly and truly—that is, to think from the standpoint of divine Principle—about the world's problems is a contribution to their solution which we all can and should, and eventually must, make.

In these days of financial and industrial difficulties it is natural to ask whether Christian Science can help the business man or woman. It can and does, just as it helps in sickness. As it becomes understood that God is Mind, and that man reflects that Mind, it is natural that there are needed resources on which we can draw for intelligence, wisdom, perspicacity, and business acumen. As God is acknowledged to be the only power it is found that He governs all things, and governs them well.

God the Only Cause

Since God is infinite, omnipotent, He is the one primal cause of all things, and the understanding of this fact is very helpful in many ways. If God is the only cause there can be no real effect except from God, Spirit, Principle. You cannot have an effect from that which is not cause. When our thought about causation begins to turn from a material to a spiritual basis, a great change takes place in our experience. We begin to challenge the validity of any cause or reason for unpleasant or unhappy occurrences. I will give you an example; again from the experience of an acquaintance of mine. A large roll of paper weighing some 150 pounds fell from a height across his foot and crushed it, inflicting a severe injury. He battled with the difficulty for two days without relief. Then he turned to a Christian Science practitioner. When the practitioner arrived my friend could not put his foot to the ground. They spent an hour together and during that time spoke much of God as the only cause. It was clearly seen that if God, who is the only cause, the accident which was certainly not a good thing, could not be a cause, and could not therefore have any effect; that it was a false belief, a false idea, that was the cause of the trouble. At the end of the hour my friend walked freely with the practitioner to the door, in a day or two he was back at work, and in a short time there was no trace whatever of the accident.

Now similar reasoning is valid in all cases of sickness or disease—whatever seems to be the cause has in reality no power in it. God being the only cause, there can be no effect but that which comes from God, and whatever seems to be existent but comes not from God is causeless—is unreal and untrue, and can be proved to be so. It may be helpful to the Christian Scientist to know what is believed to be the cause of any difficulty with which he is confronted, but only in order that he may bring to bear upon its false claims his intelligent understanding of the truth stated in the Christian Science textbook (p. 362): “Divine Mind is the only cause or Principle of existence. Cause does not exist in matter, in mortal mind, or in physical forms.”

Christian Science Treatment

Such, then, are some of the effects in human experience of the Christ, Truth, as it becomes understood through the study of Christian Science. Thus is the “divine manifestation of God” coming to the flesh in our day, and so changing thought from ignorance and false belief to the true understanding of God and man, that the dark shadows of sickness, sin, fear, doubt, and sorrow yield to the reality of man in the image and likeness of God. Let me emphasize one point here. The change of thought that is brought about by Christian Science and which results in healing, has nothing in common with hypnotism or autosuggestion. It is not the result of mental control exercised by the practitioner over the patient, nor of self-mesmerism on the part of one who uses his understanding of Christian Science to help himself. The change of thought comes about just as the change from ignorance or mistaken belief to knowledge and understanding of the true facts comes about in connection with any other subject. As a knowledge of the science of numbers corrects mistakes in computation, and eliminates their effects, so the Science of Christ corrects mistaken conceptions about God and man, and eliminates their effects from our experience. When a Christian Scientist undertakes to give a treatment to himself, or to anyone else, he endeavors to realize that there is only one God, one Mind, one Life, Truth, Love, and that man reflects that one God. He declares, thankfully, that man is governed by no laws save the laws of divine Principle, and that those laws are operative everywhere and always available to destroy the beliefs of any existence separate from God. He realizes the power and presence of divine Love in all its infinite perfection and Love's tender care for every one of its ideas. Furthermore, he denies the reality of all that is unlike God.

The best treatment is that which reflects most faithfully the one God—that has in it most of that “mind . . . which was also in Christ Jesus.” Just as the Master's knowledge of the Christ was potent to free those sufferers who came to him for help, so does that same Christ, Truth, enable us to help our fellow man, in the degree that we understand it and are faithful to it. This is in accordance with our Master's own words, “He that believeth on me”—that is, he that understands what Jesus was, he that shares Peter's perception that it was the Christ that enabled Jesus to heal the sick—“He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also.” It is the Christ, Truth, that heals in Christian Science treatment.

True Prayer

There is a subject which Christian Scientists regard as deeply important—and that subject is Prayer.

The first chapter of the Christian Science textbook is entitled “Prayer,” and it contains a clear and inspiring explanation of what true prayer is. A study of this chapter shows how inevitably one's concept of prayer changes as one's concept of God changes. So long as we think of God as capable of human feelings and passions, as one who sends or withholds punishment according to His pleasure, it is natural that we should regard prayer as a means of persuading the Almighty to interfere on our behalf when we are in trouble, or to change His intentions towards us. A very different attitude to prayer comes to us as we lose that false concept of God and begin to understand Him aright as infinite Principle, divine omnipresent Love, the one Mind, Truth, who “saw everything that he had made, and behold, it was very good.” Does God need to be changed, who by His very nature infinite good, and can know no evil, sickness, or sorrow? Does man, His image and likeness, the reflection of His infinite perfection, require alteration or improvement? The answer must be “No.” What does need to be changed is the false material concept about God and man. This change is the object of prayer. Prayer might, in fact, be described as the means whereby repentance is made permanent—it is the method whereby our altered ideas about God become natural and continuous, and are applied to the problems which confront us. Mrs. Eddy writes in the Christian Science textbook, “The first chapter on prayer, to which I referred in p. 2, ‘Prayer cannot change the Science of being, but it tends to bring us into harmony with it.’”

We are not brought into harmony with the Science of being merely by asking that this may be done, but rather by an intelligent recognition and affirmation of the true facts about God's creation. In reality, man can experience nothing which is not in accordance with the goodness of God. Therefore, what a Christian Scientist seems to be faced with conditions such as unhappiness, depression, loss, sickness, or the like, he knows that he is dealing, not with stubborn realities, but with the false suggestions of that carnal mind which Paul defines as “enmity against God.” He meets and masters such false suggestions by the positive mental declaration of the truth of being, of the perfection of God, and of God's spiritual ideas. Such an affirmative attitude of mind makes his prayers effective and triumphant.

Two examples of the prayer of affirmation and its results occur to me—one from the Old Testament, one from the New. Both are familiar, but their example and inspiration are forever fresh. The first is the story of the Shunammite woman, found in the second book of Kings. When her husband died, and the Shunammite hastened to Elisha for help, we do not read that the mother uttered any plea to God to restore her child, but she answered all questions as to her trouble with that valiant declaration of the truth, “It is well.” We know the sequel, for her child was given back to her alive. The second example is that of Jesus at the tomb of Lazarus. Jesus' prayer was: “Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me. And I knew that thou hearest me always,” and with supreme confidence in the omnipotence of Life he called Lazarus forth from the tomb where he had lain four days. And Lazarus came forth. The object of prayer is not merely to find relief from some particular difficulty or suffering, but to demonstrate the universal power of divine Love to meet human needs. In her work “No and Yes” (p. 39), Mrs. Eddy writes, “True prayer is not asking God for love; it is learning to love, and to include all mankind in one affection.”

We read in the book of Revelation, “Behold, I stand at the door and knock; if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him and he with me.” The Christ, Truth, is knocking today at the portal of human hearts and minds in the teachings of Christian Science. Shall we not open the door of consciousness and welcome in the Christ, the “divine manifestation of God, which comes to the flesh to destroy incarnate error,” as Mrs. Eddy has defined it (Science and Health, p. 583)? It was this Christ, Truth, which gave Jesus power to bring Christianity to the world, with all its blessings of health, freedom, happiness, and peace. Throughout the years since the days of the Master, glimpses of Truth have been caught by men and women of spiritual perception. Then, in due time, owing to her life of preparation and to her deeply spiritual character, Mary Baker Eddy discovered this same Truth in its full majesty in the pages of the Holy Bible. She embodied her discovery and its application to human needs in the Christian Science textbook, “Science and Health with Key to Scriptures,” and in her other writings. A study of the Bible in the light of Mrs. Eddy's works brings Christ to the human understanding; it teaches us that God is Spirit, Mind, Life, Truth, and Love; it shows us man reflecting the perfection of his creator. Thus our concept of ourselves and of our fellow man is spiritualized and purified through repentance or change of thought, and through prayer. In this way, and by these means, Christian Science offers to all mankind health of mind and health of body, peace, freedom, strength, happiness—salvation. In the words of our Leader, Mary Baker Eddy, in her “Miscellaneous Writings” (p. 154): “Abide in His (God's) word, and it shall abide in you; and the healing Christ will again be made manifest in the flesh—understood and glorified.”

Mixing Bowl BY ANN MEREDITH

When this contribution came in (letter quoted below), I said to myself, Ann, there's gold in them thar hills, after all! It was right up my alley for I am addicted to suede gloves, bags and hats and have always disliked the ruinous effects of wire suede brushes.

“If you have suedes, and who hasn't? hats, shoes, gloves and bags, go to the dime store and get a RUBBER sponge, cut it in two, and use one part for shoes, the other for gloves, hats or bags. When either part is soiled, just wash and shake dry. The rubber sponge cleans my suede things, leaving them looking like new . . . no scratched-up nap, to catch more dirt. Of course the sponge is used dry . . . wet it only when it needs cleansing.”

Reducing diets after all are simply a collection of foods, selected according to their caloric values. Why not send for our fine big catalog list and put together a common-sense plan of eating that will suit exactly you? If you want the colored list of alcoholic drinks, just say “include drinks.” And this is how you get this valuable list: Contribute an idea, a plan for a party, a good recipe, anything you think will interest other women, and send along with your stamped, return-addressed envelope.

SERIAL STORY

LOVERS AWEIGH

BY BETTY WALLACE

COPYRIGHT, 1938, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

JUDY ALCOFF—admiral's daughter. She faced a choice between two very different lives. DICK CAMPBELL—ambitious lieutenant. He faced a choice between his wife and duty. JACK HANLEY—flying sailor. He faced a test of a patient love. JARVEL HANLEY—navy wife. She faced the test of being a good sailor.

Yesterday, over and over in her mind Judy debated whether she loved Jack. Then one night the telephone rings with an urgent message for her father. "What is it?" she cries out.

CHAPTER XIX

JUDY knew that she mustn't let go like this. It was probably nothing important. She was imagining things. But into her mind had come the picture of planes flying over a dark sea, and she could hear again Jack Hanley's voice saying, "We had a casualty."

Nothing had happened to him. No. No! Nothing could happen. He was the best flyer in the squadron.

Her mother opened the door, a negligee thrown hastily about her shoulders. "Judy!" she said, drawing the girl inside.

"Father, what is it?" Judy gasped, as he put down the telephone. His face was suddenly flint hard, with narrowed, tired eyes. The lines around his mouth had sprung into prominence. It was as if the quiet man she knew had suddenly slumped under the weight of all the responsibility of his position. He said heavily, "That was Naval Communications. They have picked up a message. I must go at once."

"What message?" Judy asked. "Oh, tell me!"

He said slowly, "We have no information—no complete information."

"Was it the Enterprise?" she begged. "Please tell me! Was it an accident—something about the planes?"

Her mother tried to hush her. "Come, Judy. She led her from the room, back into her bedroom. She said, "Your father has told you all he knows, can't you see? Don't worry him. He has so much to bear!"

In her eyes was the memory of all the other times Admiral Alcott had been waked in the night by a cry of distress. Judy herself remembered vividly the night a merchantman rammed a submarine, and her father had worked days and nights without sleep, getting every vessel under his command to the scene of the tragedy.

The Falcon, tugboats, submarines. Divers to go down. Emergency equipment from New London. All of it had been his responsibility. And when in the end, there had been little they could do in that choppy sea to raise the doomed submarine, her father had been like a man whose heart had died inside him. "Nothing I can do—" he had said. "Nothing." He never once spoke of the men who had died, trapped under the sea. But she knew he had never forgotten. And her mother knew.

JUDY cried wildly, "But if it's the Enterprise, they wouldn't have called Father. Just tell me it's something else! I could stand anything else!"

Through her open window she heard the big car stop with a squeal of brakes. The enlisted man who chauffeured it had lost no time in getting here.

Then the front door slammed. Her father was gone. He would be driven swiftly to the Communications building at the foot of Broadway.

Somehow, somehow, she must live through this time. In the morning, she'd know all about it. But she couldn't bear the waiting. She said, "It's like—like that time at Lakehurst—everybody was crying in the commandant's house."

Her mother said, "It may not be the Enterprise." But she didn't sound very convincing. Judy cried, "You, you know! He told you!"

"Judy, you mustn't carry on like this." Her face was tired, too, and her mouth drooped. "He didn't tell me anything. I—I couldn't ask—"

There was no sleep for Judy that night. She tried to control herself, she tried to remember that if anything had happened at sea, Naval Communications would not call her father. The commander of the battle force would be in charge. But wasn't he the Saratoga was the office of the man directly in charge of plane carriers.

She racked her brains, to remember the name of the officer on the station who worked with the airplane carriers. What officer ashore would be called if it was actually trouble on the Enterprise?

SHE was too keyed up, too shaken, to think coherently. Her mother said sharply, "This is silly, Judy! It might be any one of a half dozen more or less routine emergencies, and you know it as well as I!"

But Judy cried, "I tell you. I can feel this. I've been thinking about the Enterprise all night. . . . Like a premonition of disaster."

Her mother said, "Nonsense!" She added, more kindly, "Every flyer's wife in the Navy has premonitions every time her husband takes off. And what do they amount to?"

Every flyer's wife. The words repeated themselves over and over in Judy's mind. She wasn't Jack's wife. Why was she carrying on like this? But he was her friend. Her best friend!

As if her mother's thoughts had followed her own, Mrs. Alcott said softly, "I know Jack is very dear to you. But even if your premonition is right, and the trouble has something to do with the Enterprise, remember there are many men aboard her. Dozens of other flyers. . . . It isn't Jack. It can't be."

The telephone rang again, imperiously. Judy jumped.

"I'll take it," her mother said quietly.

"Hello? Yes, this is Mrs. Alcott." There was a silence. Then her mother's face seemed to gray as it listened, and she said at last, "My dear, I'm so sorry! So sorry! But they can't be sure yet. It may be a mistake. Oh, we'll come at once, my child!"

Mrs. Alcott turned to Judy. "That was Diane Bell. She says the skipper's wife telephoned her. They think—they think—Bill!"

"God!" Judy's nails punched into the soft flesh of her palm. But in the next moment, choking relief flooded her. Little drops of moisture stood on her upper lip. She sobbed, "Not Jack!" over and over, as if even now she was afraid. "Not Jack!"

HER mother's arm slid around her shoulder. "Darling, you must quiet down. He wouldn't want you to act this way no matter what happened." And then she said, "We must dress quickly. We must get to Diane at once."

Judy put her stockings on in a daze. She took out the first dress her fingers touched as they groped in the closet, and slipped into it, zipping it up while her heart pounded.

Jack was safe. Jack. And in that moment, realization like a high green wave washed over her. All her dread had been for Jack. Never, never had she worried this way for Dwight. Why—why—could that mean—did it possibly mean—that she loved him? She sat down on the bed. This agony that had racked her because she thought he was in danger, was it because he was dearer to her than she had guessed?

"Ready, Judy?" There was no time to think. She must go to Diane. But the first thing Diane said when she opened the door was, "Judy! They said—they said two planes were down. Bill's—and Jack Hanley's." (To Be Continued)

DELEGATED AUTHORITY

There are times in the lives of all children when someone other than their parents, is placed in authority over them. Make no mistake about it, authority is an essential force in child training, and children are quick to feel its weakness and take advantage of it. Whenever a child does that it is he who is the loser. His experience is false and, therefore, it weakens him.

In these days mothers as well as fathers are obliged to leave home every day for work. Somebody must have charge of the children and that person, because he shoulders responsibility, must have authority. And the father and mother must support that person in his authority even though they dislike doing so.

One boy is left in the care of his grandmother. She wants the boy to get home from school promptly, change his clothes, eat a light lunch and do any errand that is needed. The boy wants to play on the lot before getting home. He becomes interested in a ball game and gets home dirty and ragged, just before it is time for the evening meal. Grandmother is wroth, but father and mother, weary of battle, are inclined to say, "Never mind. Let him be. What if he isn't so clean? What if he doesn't get in just on time? As long as he is healthy."

That is all very well for father and mother who have not to deal with the boy during the day. But grandmother must, and she must be responsible if he does not come home whole and healthy some evening. The least father and mother can do is to put their weight behind grandmother and support her authority in such matters.

The same holds good when responsibility is given to paid attendants. The nurse in charge of the children must have authority, and the children must understand that father and mother support that authority. That is why the character of the nurse or the housekeeper in charge must be known and trusted. It will not do to place irresponsible people in charge of children. The right sort must be found first. Then they must be given the power they need to do duty.

Of course points of difference will arise between the temporary guardians and the parents. These ought not to be discussed before the children. Margaret, the old nurse, would cut the children's meat long after they were able to do it for themselves. She would take the knife and fork out of the ten-year-old boy's hands and cut up his food every chance she got. Of course it was not right, but that was a matter for private conference with Margaret. "Lord love him, it's no trouble to cut his bit of meat for him." Just the same, somebody had to whisper in her ear a secret about training a boy to help himself and other people.

Criticism of those in charge of the children must never reach the children's ears. It should not be even looked, much less hinted. Children feel what people think,

'Troy Can't Be Any Tougher Than Pitt' Says Duke's Coach

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—(UP)—Thanks to Alexander Graham Bell and his invention of the telephone, it was no more than 15 minutes after Duke University had been asked to play in the Rose Bowl than I was talking to Wallace Wade, coach of the Blue Devils, and asking him what he thought of his chances.

The Los Angeles operator asked me who I wanted, I told her, she spun a few dials, and there, on the other end of the line 2600 miles away, was Wallace Wade, the quiet Tennessee fellow who turns out football teams with a bang.

I said congratulations, Wallace.

He drew a "Thank you, Henry," and then wanted to know why I was calling him up.

From here on out I'll just quote our conversation: H. M.: Lissen, Wallace, there are lots of folks out here who think Southern California picked you because you are a softer touch than either Tennessee or Texas Christian. What do you think about that? W. W.: Well, Henry, maybe we are, and then maybe we aren't. You been looking at football teams a long time, and did you ever see one with enough luck to play nine games without losing one or even having a point scored against it? H. M.: That's right, Wallace, but tell me this—this is the best football team you ever coached? Is it as good as those three Alabama teams you brought out here without taking a licking?

W. W.: Henry, that was a long time ago, and this is this year. Football has changed since then. I can't very well compare this team with those of the past. But Duke this year is a mighty good team. H. M.: You think you'll win then, huh?

W. W.: I'm not saying that, but I'll tell you this: I've brought three teams out to play in the Rose Bowl. We never were licked. I'm bringing a fourth pretty soon, and I'm proud and glad to bring the boys I'm bringing. I'm not worried. We may get our bumps, sure, but we'll make it powerful hot while we're getting 'em.

H. M.: Then you think you

SPEEDY IRISH BACKS SURE TO TROUBLE TROY

By STEVE SNIDER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO—Today's puzzler for Coach Howard Jones of Southern California: which Notre Dame back will you have to watch Saturday—Sheridan, Saggau, Stevenson, Thesing, Zontini or Hofer?

Rolling westward on the Irish football special are these six speedy backs, who have taken their turn at inspiring Notre Dame's eight precious victories as regularly as Elmer Layden had picked the star of the day himself.

Stevenson against Illinois, Sheridan against Army, Saggau against Navy, Zontini against Minnesota, Hofer against Northwestern, and Thesing at Georgia Tech—one man in each game—turned the tide and kept Notre Dame undefeated in its greatest season since the National championship days of 1930.

Who's Turn Is It? Not even Layden knows whose turn is next.

"I wish I did," he grinned over his last Midwest breakfast for a couple of weeks. "This will be our toughest game of a pretty hard schedule I hope they all break loose!"

Layden fears the strain of an undefeated season, plus a week's lay-off and hard trip across the country may tell against the Irish.

"These boys of mine are easy to talk to, and I've warned them what we're up against," he said.

"They may be toasted conquering heroes all over California, but they've been warned that all that stops after the kickoff. Southern California has speed, line power and reserves enough to match ours and we all know it."

Layden likes a team he can talk to. It's the plan of Notre Dame coaches never to key a team for an important game, for Irish coaches learned long ago there are too many important ones along the road. The boys must key themselves and already they have been "up" for Illinois, Army and Minnesota. Now they're gunning for Southern California.

Although he is only a sophomore—one of those rare ones on any Notre Dame team—Bob Saggau likely will be the most dangerous runner this week. He is the greatest backfield prospect at Notre Dame in a dozen years.

Brought along slowly by Layden, Saggau has been under little pressure any time this season. While the more experienced left halfbacks—Harry Stevenson and Ben Sheridan—carried the load, Layden picked them up for Saggau and the sophomore star ran hard against Army, Navy and Minnesota.

"We knew last spring we had a good offensive team," Layden admitted, "and it has been in almost every game. The low was against Northwestern, when we had our worst letdown."

"I think the line decided it had the ball game won and wouldn't charge. It was a tough one to win at 9 to 7 and we almost lost it when one of our backs got careless on pass defense in the last quarter."

W. W.: Tough. Awful tough. I sorta feel we won't face a team any tougher this year. Maybe Southern California will be as tough. But Lawdy, they can't be any tougher.

H. M.: Lissen, Wallace, What I'm trying to get at is, will you start west as satisfied with the Duke team as you were with the Alabama teams?

W. W.: Well, I'll tell you, I aim to sleep very comfortably from the time I leave Durham until I get back to Notre Dame. I won't fret going out and I don't think I'll fret coming back. We'll be there on New Year's Day with a pretty fair country football team. Win or lose, we'll show you folks out there a right smart team.

H. M.: Okay, coach, see you at the station.

W. W.: Okay, Henry, and don't sell us short. We might up and fool you.

We hung (or is it hanged?) up with me getting, I hope, $13.84 worth of night person-to-person rate information.

Only time will tell.

WEST WINDS HERE AND THERE IN SPORT

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK.—A sure sign that the football season is on its last legs comes from Philadelphia—a rumor that the Athletics and Tigers will participate in a six-player deal before the final scores of the Jan. 2 Bowl games are known.

The Philadelphia report has it that the A's will send Third Baseman Bill Werber, Outfielder Wally Moses and First Baseman Dick Seibert to Detroit in exchange for Rudy York, Outfielder Chet Labs and Roy Cullenbine, and Rookie Infielder Benny McCoy.

Connie Mack, who attended the Army-Navy football game wrapped in several blankets, pooh-poohed the trade rumor, saying, "don't you think I'd know something about it if there was a deal up?"

There is definite assurance from Detroit that "Spike" Briggs, General Manager Jack Zeller and Manager Del Baker are going to bring a lot of new faces into Briggs stadium next season.

Owner Briggs wants a winner and he has told his son to make the necessary moves to break the Yankees stronghold on the American league title.

The left side of the Tigers' infield needs bolstering, another outfielder is in demand, and the Detroit pitching staff needs patching up. The Tigers already have opened negotiations for Earl Travis, Washington's hard-hitting shortstop.

There is more than an even chance that the Tigers will use Rudy York as the big bait in any major deals that they undertake. Because of Hank Greenberg's presence, York has been the orphan of the club. Since he must give way to Greenberg at first base, York has tried to catch, play third base and the outfield with the Tigers without any great success in any position.

York's natural position is first base but he'll never play that position as long as he's with the Tigers. In time he may develop into a fair catcher but the Tigers haven't enough all-around strength to carry him through the development stage and build a championship contender at the same time.

Four Clubs Could Use York. Four clubs could use York at first base—Washington, Philadelphia, Chicago and St. Louis. Don't be surprised if York winds up with some of these clubs if the Tigers decide to dispose of him.

Induch as the Tigers have one of the brainiest young catchers in the majors in "Birdie" Tebbetts, it would seem a wise move to trade York if a good deal can be made for him. Tebbetts, although a weak hitter, is a great hustler and handler of pitchers. He was behind the bat during one of the most successful streaks the Tigers enjoyed last season.

If the Tigers land Travis from Washington and Werber from the A's, they will have one of baseball's classiest infields completed by Gehring at second and Greenberg at third. But they need another hard-hitting outfielder to team up with Pete Fox and "Dixie" Walker, and a 20-game winner on the pitching staff.

DALLAS.—(UP)—Monty Stratton, whose promising baseball career was ended by a bullet wound that necessitated amputation of his right leg, was recuperating slowly from loss of blood and the effects of the operation today.

Stratton, 25-year-old right-hander of the Chicago White Sox, was injured when a pistol he carried strapped to his leg accidentally discharged while he was hunting rabbits on his mother's farm at Greenville Sunday. The bullet entered the thigh, ranged downward and severed the big artery behind the knee.

His BEST COMEBACK. In 1931 Mickey Health, Milwaukee Brewer manager, was stricken with a rheumatic fever which reduced his weight from 185 pounds to 122 in two months.

35 REPORT FOR DON BASKETBALL SQUAD

Thirty-five Santa Ana junior college basketball candidates signed up and took part in the opening workout yesterday at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. Coaches Bill Cook and John Ward directed the large squad through a combination passing and scrimmage drill.

That the turnout was a promising one was admitted, but it does not necessarily mean the Santa Ana team can look for a championship season. Fullerton, which has a full club returning from its championship aggregation of last year, already has been tabbed as the "team to beat" with Chaffey and Riverside strong secondary choices. The Dons are definitely in the dark horse class.

Four Dons who failed to suit up today include Vernon Worden, promising guard from Orange; Ted DeVellis, returning letterman, Jimmy Nunez, forward from Anaheim; Rollo Beck, Laguna Beach star, and Sam Henderson, big Brea-Olinda basketball.

Several promising newcomers who took part in yesterday's workout were John Peidmont, who hails from Tulsa, Okla.; Herb Middleton, a fast forward from Anaheim high; Art Cornwell of Hollywood and Myron Smith, a 6-3 prep from Denver.

Paul Dearden, running guard from Idaho Falls, was another newcomer in suit.

Coach Cook picked several teams to play five-minute quarters, On the No. 1 team were Charles Hall, Art Heinisch, Cy Leivermann, Lynn Arnett and Larry Monroy. No. 2 team included Vic Lindskog, Don Borden, Bob Schildmeyer, Russ Dearden and Ernie Barrett.

The squad roster: Herb Middleton, Chet Carl, Bill Wilson, John Peidmont, Nelson Harris, Lawrence Tway, Charles Tway, Charles Artridge, Pasche, Hugh Neighbour, Romolo Narducci, Phil Lewis, Roland Lundley, Art Cornwell, Henry Martinez, Elson Gache, Dick Saunders, Frank Lopez, Myron Smith, Bob Clark, Johnny Joseph, Art Heinisch, Charles Hall, Cy Leivermann, Lynn Arnett, Larry Monroy, Vic Lindskog, Don Borden, Bob Schildmeyer, Russ Dearden, Ernie Barrett, Steve Wagner, Ralph Metcalfe, and Bob Hall.

Westward Ho?

By JACK GUENTHER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES.—Because they twisted the tail of that old cracker barrel favorite about a good offense being the best defense, the Duke university Blue Devils of Durham, N. C. will meet University of Southern California's Trojans in the 22nd renewal of Rose Bowl football on January 2.

For it was defense, and a powerful lot of it, that won the boys from the tobacco country the most coveted invitation of the football year. The Blue Devils are the first major team to complete a season undefeated, untied and unscored on since the Colgate eleven of 1932. That neat defeat brought them the bid to the East-West extravaganza, and $90,000 in gate receipts, in the shortest space of time in the New Year game's history.

There were those today who thought that Texas Christian, Tennessee, Oklahoma or some other eligible may have had a stronger team. But when all arguments ended in discord the facts remained that the Southern California players didn't think so, and Trojan Athletic Director Willis O. Hunter didn't think so, and they were the parties who mattered.

S. C. Players Prefer Duke. The players voted two to one preference for Duke. Hunter said simply:

"The Duke football record of being undefeated, untied and unscored on in nine games is unequalled by that of any other team in the nation."

The choice of Duke, first member of the present Southern conference to be so honored, was announced six hours after the 10 Pacific Coast conference institutions voted unanimously that Southern California should represent the West.

Southern California ended its season in a tie with the defending champion, California of Berkeley, and a spirited political battle had been expected. However, the Trojans clinched the bid on the first six ballots recorded and a meeting of student alumni and administration officials was immediately called to sound out sentiment.

After the meeting word was passed out that the selection would be announced in 24 hours. Sports writers held a straw vote among the players and found they favored Duke by a two-thirds majority. Hunter telephoned Coach Wallace Wade at Durham and the invitation was accepted immediately.

Hunter Issues Statement. Throughout the day U.S.C. students had heavily favored Duke and Texas Christian with virtually no enthusiasm for other teams. The players' choice was believed to have settled the issue. Hunter said:

"It has always been the aim of the Pacific Coast conference and Tournament of Roses officials to perpetuate the East against West idea which was begun with the

L. A. TOURNEY HITS BOXING CARD HERE

The Golden Gloves boxing tournament in Los Angeles robbed the Orange County Athletic club of the majority of its billed talent for last night's show, forcing the matchmaker to race higher and yon and produce an all-substitute card. Even the arena's real ticket, Fernie Bae, failed to show.

The final half of the main event saw Santa Ana's Bennie Garcia matched against tough Richie Lemos of Los Angeles. Lemos is one of those steady slugging fighters that can't seem to be hurt no matter how hard they are hit, and Garcia peppered him with everything he could think of with Lemos dishing right back for four solid rounds.

The judges disagreed, making it necessary for Referee Steve Nyland to decide the verdict in favor of Garcia, a verdict which was well received by the cash customers.

The fight of the evening was between Lupe Placentia and Ed Scrutens, the scourge of Centray avenue. Placentia had not been training for several weeks and was sadly outboxed by the tough Negro who made one of the Baeas stop lively to take the decision away from him last week. Placentia stepped out and gave the fans a real show for their money, but Scrutens beat him to the punch at every turn, flooring him for a nine count in the second and outboxing him in the third and fourth to take an easy decision.

Buddy O'Brien (address Tasmalia) got himself knocked by Doug Cook in the second fight and then came back again in the fifth and knocked Manual Garcia for a loop in the second round.

Jimmie Merced exploded a bomb in colored Roy Stafford's whiskers in the third. Mr. Stafford, having kissed the canvas twice in the second, promptly resigned.

Louie Gleason, newscoer from Balboa, took an easy decision from Marshall Calderon in a lively brawl.

Cruz Flores out pointed Richie Young and Gus Leyvas took an easy decision from "Lefty" Brecco.

Bierman's salary at Minnesota is $9000, but there are other sources of revenue . . . radio, newspaper and magazine articles, and endorsement of equipment among them . . . boosting his income to between $15,000 and $20,000.

MOTHER GUILTY IN SON'S DEATH

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—(UP)—A mother who withheld medical care for her dying child was convicted today of manslaughter.

But a debonaire young minister who advised her to rely upon a "divine cure" while he serenaded the child with guitar accompaniment was acquitted.

Superior Judge A. A. Scott called him a "religious racketeer." Scott freed Mrs. Lillian Volstad without bond and set her probation hearing for Dec. 20. He found her guilty, without a jury, of refusing to let doctors treat her son Francis, 9, until too late to save him of a ruptured appendix. The boy died August 8 after a court order forced his transfer to a hospital.

Mrs. Volstad wept in the seclusion of her home. She is subject to one to 10 years imprisonment on the manslaughter conviction.

Her minister, Rev. Wilbur Alvis, replied heatedly that "religious prejudice was behind this whole thing, no doubt about it."

"The judge simply gave his own opinions instead of answering our defense arguments," Alvis said. "Our prayers were curing Sonny, there was no question about it. The boy didn't have any pains after he was prayed over."

"The fact is, he died in the doctor's hands. They finally took him to a hospital and had him there for 56 hours. I have no doubt that the boy would have been alive today if they had kept their hands off. If anyone should have been indicted, it should have been the doctors and the hospital."

Judge Scott in his verdict emphasized that:

"There can be no question as to the efficacy of prayer and the wonderful results that have been obtained thereby. But that is not the question before the court."

Girl Scouts

Craft Shop For Scouts
Saturday, December 3, from 9:00 until 11:00 a. m. there will be a Craft Shop at the Girl Scout Little House, 606 North Parton. The Shop will be open again on December 10, 17, 19, 20, 21, 22 and 23 at the same hours.

Instruction in cork, copper, clay, bead, needle and other crafts will be provided for the Scouts. From the advance registration some fifty girls are expected to be working in the shop.

The only cost to the girl is that of the material she uses. Most projects will cost 10c and 15c. Many girls are taking advantage of this instruction to make their Christmas gifts. Girls are asked to bring the money for their materials with them on December 3.

habit—and the habit originates in the fact that lunches cost money. Doug Corrigan quit eating lunches in order to have the two-bits a day that a sandwich would cost—not because he wanted to build a personal bank roll, but because he was scraping to put a kid brother through college.

Billy Becker, a 20-year-old extra, makes $3.50 a day before the cameras—on the rare days when he works. But that's only a sideline. The studios pay him $15 a day rental for his ancient car. It works approximately three days to Billy's one.

An Indian rebellion is under way in Utah. One hundred Navajos working in "Union Pacific" are perfectly willing to pick up pay checks from the movies, but they decline to have anything to do with the Great White Father's Social Security program. When the company's location auditor tried to fill out blanks for them, they "spoke no English." He referred their case to the Los Angeles manager of the Social Security board, who in turn laid it in the lap of the Utah manager. Pressed too hard, the braves simply rolled up their spare blankets and said they would go back to the reservation. It's still an impasse.

In the Metro commissary, I met Jack Haley, who was completely incensed in the metallic suit he wears in the "Tin Woodman" in "The Wizard of Oz," and asked how he feels in it. "Keg-lined"—he grunted laconically.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson

BAGDAD, CALIFORNIA, HAD ONLY 3.93 INCHES OF RAIN FROM 1909 TO 1913, INCLUSIVE.

THE PLANET NEPTUNE WAS DISCOVERED ON PAPER, BY THE APPLICATION OF MATHEMATICAL FORMULAS.

INDIGO BUNTING IS WHICH OF THESE?
☐ A BASE BALL TERM
☐ A BIRD
☐ A SHADE OF DECORATING MATERIAL

ANSWER: A bird. Due to perturbations displayed in the orbit of the planet Uranus, two astronomers, each working without the other's knowledge, arrived at the conclusion that an unknown planet was causing the disturbance, and that this planet could be found at a certain location. A telescope proved the calculations to be correct.
